

Democrats Charge GOP Claims False Credit for Peace

Truman Hits At Increased Interest Rates

Washington —(AP)— Democrats went gunning for the Eisenhower administration today with accusations that it is claiming credit for peace where there is no peace and robbing the citizen to pay off the financier.

Harry S. Truman hurled the robbery charge last night. The jaunty former president said the recession is no accident, an administration high interest policy is its basic cause, and "Shylock was a gentleman compared to our Republican interest-happy government."

A 1958 campaign conference of Democratic women from over the nation, 2,000 strong, assembled for three days of speeches and workshop sessions to whip up pep and strategy for this fall's congressional elections.

Joins in Attack

In the same forum, Sen. Mansfield of Montana, the assistant Democratic leader in the senate, followed through on the peace issue today.

Mansfield said Americans would be fighting in red China now if Democrats hadn't restrained Republican enthusiasm for it, yet the administration is trying to sell the people the idea there is peace in the Far East.

In the Middle East, the senator said, the administration has "toyed with autocratic and dictatorial movements and nations, while it overlooks with almost snobbish disdain countries like Lebanon and Israel which are struggling to keep the concept of freedom alive."

And one thing that must be determined soon, Mansfield said, is whether the foreign aid program "is supposed to serve the ends of foreign policy or to provide a dumping ground for voluntarily or involuntarily retired Republican politicians and surplus colonels."

Brief Speeches

Truman shared the platform last night with the two top Democrats in congress, Senate Leader Lyndon Johnson and House Speaker Ray Rayburn, and with more than a score of Democratic senators who were allotted a minute apiece.

The former president said the administration has been "misusing its power over the money supply" to redistribute the national income in the wrong direction.

"The treasury has juggled around its short-term and long-term issues, and its types of issues, so as to rob the ordinary citizen to pay off political obligations to the gigantic financiers," Truman said.

Interest rates have been raised last, he said, on such things as savings bonds "bought or held by average American families."

Along with a high interest policy, he contended, administration tax, budgetary, farm and other policies "have put the squeeze on the people for the benefit of the privileged few."

He said the GOP has a "hostility to maximum employment, production and purchasing power" and an "attachment to a considerable volume of unemployment."

Johnson urged the Democratic women to help pile up so big a Democratic majority in congress this fall "it can put an end to government by veto."

Under Eisenhower, he continued, there are "vetoes almost every week" of bills Democrats are pushing through to try to help the economic situation.

Lady Docker Ordered to Quit Monaco

Monte Carlo —(AP)— Britain's Lady Docker got the boot today from Monaco. Prince Rainier's government charged she insulted the royal family and the flag of the little principality.

The order, signed by Minister of State Henri Soum, did not apply to Lady Docker's industrialist husband, Sir Bernard. The government considered him merely an onlooker.

The Monacan order also barred Lady Docker from the adjacent French Riviera. This is possible under a 1918 agreement with France, but such an order must have French approval.

It was expected that at least one of the fun spots in the French Riviera, Cannes, will find a loophole. The Dockers spend a lot of money and they unload plenty of it at Cannes.

Tears up Paper Flag
The government charged Lady Docker tore up a paper Monacan flag because her son was not permitted to attend the christening reception Sunday for Prince Albert, newborn son of Prince Rainier and Princess Grace.

The spotlight is nothing new for Lady Docker, who has made headlines for activities ranging from playing tiddly-winks to driving around in a gold-plated car.

In Birmingham, England, Sir Bernard said he and his wife planned no apologies.

He said the flag was on a table in the swank Hotel de Paris.

Tipsy Driver Fined $150

Rural Appleton Man Sentenced for Driving After Losing License

Ernest W. Martzahl, 28, route 3, Appleton, today was fined $150 for drunken driving.

M u n i c i p a l Judge Oscar J. Schmieg also ruled he cannot apply for a driver's license for a year.

Martzahl admitted driving after his license was revoked and was sentenced to 60 days in county jail. He also admitted using improper evidence of registration and was fined $25.

He faced 90 additional days in jail if he does not pay his fine.

He was arrested shortly after 10 o'clock Monday night after state patrolmen followed him for about five miles at speeds up to 80 miles an hour on Highway 55 north from 41.

Martzahl refused to take the drunkometer test. It was his second drunken driving conviction. Only one car left the station and his second conviction for driving after his license was revoked.

Ike's Plan for Pentagon Vital, McElroy States

Modern Weapons, Techniques Cited By Defense Chief

Washington —(AP)— Secretary of Defense McElroy argued today that modern weapons and war techniques require the Pentagon organization changes proposed by President Eisenhower.

Carrying the fight for the administration's defense department proposals to a house committee whose leaders are openly opposed to it, McElroy said: "It would be tragic indeed if in the moment of crisis we should be found wanting because of an attempt to graft the weapons of modern warfare onto an outmoded organizational structure."

Cites Ike's Experience
McElroy repeatedly invoked the name of Eisenhower in urging the house armed services committee to accept the reorganization plan. He told the group "we believe that most of the concerns that have been expressed about the president's proposals will disappear when we have together studied the specific legislation and its adequacy to meet these needs."

McElroy said the program "is the president's plan."

He pointed out Eisenhower's qualifications in the field, from

Waupaca Man Dies in Crash

Car Misses Curve, Smashes Into Yard Of Farm Near King

Waupaca — Kenneth Peterson, 32, 506 North street, was killed about 1:30 this morning in a single car accident on Highway 22 about a mile north of King.

Injured in the accident was Gerald Polly, 42, Townsend road, who was hospitalized with possible back injuries and a possible skull fracture. His condition was listed as fair at Riverside Community hospital.

Coroner Dr. Sam Salan said he was conducting an investigation into details of the accident. It is not known who was driving the car when it went out of control on a curve, crashed a rail fence and rolled several times in the farmyard of Adam Winkus, according to Sheriff Floyd Taylor.

Peterson is survived by his widow and one child. Funeral arrangements are being made by Holly Funeral home. He was employed by the county highway department for the last 33 years.

His death was the fourth traffic fatality in the county this year and it raised the state traffic toll to 186, compared with 224 a year ago.

CAB Eyes Problem Of Air Space Control

Crash Over Nevada Desert Stresses Need for Regulations

Las Vegas, Nev. —(AP)— In Washington, D. C., the civil aeronautics board discussed today the problem of air space control. At the same time, on the Nevada desert, the smashed, smoldering remnants of a fall-on-arrival spoke of the problem with more eloquence and more horror.

The United Air Lines DC7, carrying 47 persons and an air force F100 on an instrument training mission scattered against the desert near Las Vegas yesterday after an explosive collision in flight.

Two men were in the F100. All aboard both planes perished.

On the airliner were a number of prominent businessmen. Also aboard was an inventor whose creation was designed to help prevent the thing that killed him.

CAB's Proposal
The CAB, in an effort to end such collisions as yesterday's, proposed an experiment in which it would set aside part of the air space from which would be barred all planes lacking scientific clearance to enter it. All aircraft operating in the designated space would have to be equipped with instrument flight operations.

Brig. Gen. James C. McGehee, commander of Nellis, said investigation "revealed one pilot ejected, apparently too low for the chute to open."

McGehee said: "The type of training penetration (let down) being initiated by F100s is the same penetration that is initiated every day out of Nellis and has been coordinated and approved by the CAB."

Will such flights now be stopped?

"Investigation will determine that," the general said.

The pilot of the jet was Capt. Tom Corryell, who was from Indianapolis but lived here with his wife. The student pilot was Lt. Gerald Moran of Rapid City, S. D.

Woman Robbed of $126,000 in Gems
Chicago —(AP)— The wife of a millionaire industrialist was robbed of $126,000 in jewels Monday night by two men she first suspected of carrying out a practical joke planned by her husband.

It was the second big jewel loss in seven weeks for Mrs. Ethel Haffa, who owns several race horses. Titus Haffa, her husband, heads an industrial empire which includes 18 firms. He was upstairs in the Haffa apartment during the robbery.

The two men, one brandishing a gun, the other masked, accosted her as she entered the lobby of the Haffas' Gold Coast apartment on Lake Shore drive. They chased her around the lobby before she surrendered the jewelry she was wearing.

18 Injured in Texas Tornado

Infant Snatched From Mother's Arms But Not Badly Hurt

Midlothian, Texas —(AP)— An erratic tornado ripped through this area, injured 18 persons, smashed farm houses and snatched a small boy from his mother's arms late yesterday.

The American Red Cross reported 18 persons received hospital treatment, but only two remained for further care today.

Gary Froning, a chubby 2-year-old, was sucked from his collapsing home and whirled 50 yards into a pasture as the twister slashed back and forth across a dozen miles square.

Although debris fell all around him, the youngster suffered only a cut chin. It was only one of many dramatic escapes as the twister, veering at right angles at least twice, swept across the farm area south and east of this central Texas town.

Home Demolished
The tornado apparently scored a direct hit on the 4-room frame home of George Froning, 6 miles southeast of Midlothian.

"It was raining so hard you couldn't see, but we didn't know anything about a tornado coming because of the noise from hail pounding on the tin roof of our sun room," Froning said.

"Then a window blew in, and my wife and I grabbed the children."

Mrs. Froning and Gary were in a bedroom.

"I tried to get under the bed, but there wasn't room," she said. She pushed the little boy

Daly's office.

Freedman was called to the witness chair after Hanlon's testimony of the alleged shake-down attempt. He identified himself as senior partner in the produce supply firm of McCray and Hunter.

Under questioning, Freedman said Feldman asked him to relay to Horn and Hardart officials a suggestion that "for $50,000 we can take care of this."

"I said, 'You mean stop the picketing?'" Freedman said, "and he (Feldman) said 'yes.'"

He said it would have to be divided three ways.

Freedman said he did mention it to Hanlon, and asked Hanlon whether it would be wise to take it up also with E. H. Daly, head of the Horn and Hardart organization in both Philadelphia and New York.

Freedman said Hanlon replied that anyone making such a proposition to Daly probably would be thrown out of Daly's office.

Told $50,000 Needed to Halt Union Drive

Baking Company Official Testifies At Rackets Inquiry

Washington —(AP)— An official of a Philadelphia baking company testified today he was told that $50,000 could halt a violent union organized drive against his company.

"I said emphatically that Horn and Hardart wasn't interested in any proposition of that nature," Daniel J. Hanlon, Jr., chief counsel for the company, told the senate rackets investigating committee.

Hanlon testified that the suggestion for the $50,000 payment was relayed to him from Samuel "Shorty" Feldman, a business agent for Teamster Local 929 in Philadelphia during the organization drive in 1955.

Names Go-Between
The go-between, he said, was Solomon Joseph Freedman, Philadelphia, a supplier of fresh fruits and vegetables to the company which operates a chain of restaurants and bakeries.

Hanlon said that in a telephone conversation, "Mr. Freedman said that Mr. Feldman told him that Horn and Hardart could settle the whole matter for $50,000."

"I cut Mr. Freedman off so sharply he couldn't go into any details," Hanlon told the committee.

Leading up to the story of the alleged shake-down attempt, the committee developed testimony from Hanlon and other company officials of repeated acts of violence during the 1955-56 union organizing drive. They placed the number of such violent actions, including beating of employees, at 120 or 125.

Opposition In Council Too Strong

United Nations, N. Y. —(AP)— Facing defeat, the Soviet Union gave up a fight last night to have the U. N. Security council demand a halt to Arctic flights toward the Soviet frontier by U. S. hydrogen bombers.

Soviet Delegate Arkady A. Sobolev withdrew a resolution claiming the American flights risked nuclear war after nine of the other ten countries on the council had spoken against it in a 6-hour debate.

U. S. Delegate Henry Cabot Lodge said the flights of the U. S. strategic air command were practice to keep up its deterrent strength and "could not possibly be the accidental cause of war." He asserted the flights would continue.

Fails to Gain Time
Britain, Canada, nationalist China, Colombia, France, Iraq, Japan and Panama sided with the United States. The other council member, Sweden, kept silent.

After Lodge — the council president for April — proposed that the council dispose of the Russian resolution before adjournment, Sobolev twice failed with motions to gain time by adjourning the debate overnight. Only Sweden voted with the Soviet Union.

The Russian then withdrew his resolution to censure the United States, protesting that Lodge had sidestepped free discussion and resorted "to the voting machine." The American delegate denied the charges, saying "The simple fact was that the Soviet Union did not have enough votes to push its proposal through."

Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko had charged that U. S. bombers armed with nuclear weapons were making repeated flights across the Arctic toward Russia in response to false radar alerts. He said an error might result in an attack which would trigger an atomic war.

U. S. Denies Charge
The U. S. government denied Gromyko's charge, asserting it had a foolproof system to prevent an attack by mistake. The state department said it welcomed a security council debate on the Russian charge.

The Russians asked the council to call on the United States to refrain from sending its military aircraft carrying atomic and hydrogen bombs in the direction of the frontiers of other states for the purpose of threatening their security or staging military demonstrations.

Introducing his resolution before the council, Sobolev termed the U. S. flights in the Far North provocative and adventurous and said they aimed at hampering the talks on a summit conference that began in Moscow Thursday.

Lodge in reply said standing procedure guaranteed that no SAC bomber could "pass beyond its proper bounds, far from the Soviet Union," without orders from President Eisenhower. He said the United States had no aggressive intent but must protect itself until there was an international agreement to banish fears of surprise attack.

'Butcher of Paris'
Wins Clemency
Paris —(AP)— The death sentence of Gen. Karl Albrecht and Oberst known as "the butcher of Paris" in World War II was commuted to life imprisonment today by President Rene Coty.

He and Col. Helmut Knochen were condemned by a French military tribunal Oct. 9, 1954, on charges of executing more than 1,000 French hostages.

Sobolev's sentence also was commuted. Oberst was chief of Nazi police forces in France throughout the occupation. Knochen was his deputy.

Both had been sentenced to death by a British military court for the execution of British parachute troops. These sentences also were commuted.

Coty had been expected to spare the two from the firing squad but clemency was delayed to avoid arousing French feelings, which ran high at the trial.

Father, Son and Deputy Sheriff Killed in California Gun Battle

Dana Point, Calif. —(AP)— A 10-year-old boy, his father and a deputy sheriff died in a battle about 200 feet.

Then, as Johnson and Shultz approached the travel-stained bus, Charles Arthur Seyfert, 39-year-old Tucson, Ariz., carpenter, and Seyfert's older son, Charles Allyn, 14, opened fire on them—the father with a .22-caliber pistol and the son with a rifle.

Spectators heard Seyfert order his sons to get their guns at the sister's home briefly and out the occupation. Knochen was his deputy.

Move Clouds Chance Of Pension Fund Law

Knowland's Push to Amend Bill To Cover Other Labor Problems. Opposed by Sponsors of Measure

BY JOE HALL
Washington — The chances of a senate bill to regulate employee pension and welfare funds were clouded today by a move to extend it to other labor problems.
Republican leader Knowland (Calif.) said he would push amendments key provisions of what he described as a "bill of rights for labor" — a bill he introduced in January with the avowed purpose of assuring Democratic processes within labor unions.
Knowland told newsmen this might be the only opportunity at this session to get floor consideration of his proposals.
Senators interested in the pension-welfare fund bill had said they expected it to come up for floor discussion today.
However, senate Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson (D-Texas), apparently surprised at Knowland's decision, told a reporter he wanted to canvass the situation before deciding when to begin debate on the bill.
Seek Limit on Debate
Knowland, who is leaving the senate after this year to run for governor of his state, conceded in talking to reporters that his move might open up the whole field of labor legislation on the floor.
Sponsors of the welfare fund bill had urged that floor debate be limited to the one issue, lest introduction of more controversial subjects prevent passage of any labor bill at this session.
Union leaders generally have supported welfare fund regulation, provided it applies to both management and union-operated funds.
The pension-welfare fund bill, sponsored by Sens. Kennedy (D-Mass.), Douglas (D-Ill.) and Ives (R-N.Y.), would provide for federal regulation of benefit plans covering 100 employees or more.
It would require registration of all such plans and full disclosure of their financial management.
Would Set Penalties
Federal criminal penalties would be established for filing false information or making false entries in plan records, for embezzling or stealing any of the funds, or for any kick-back schemes involving fund officers or employees.
Key provisions of Knowland's bill would require secret ballot union elections, provide for secret votes to recall or oust union leaders, and permit 15 percent of a union's members to force a vote on proposals to amend or veto policy decisions of union officials, including the calling and continuing of strikes.
Douglas said he would oppose action on these amendments to the pension-welfare fund bill. Ives tentatively took the same position, and Sen. Allott (R-Colo.) said that he believed the pension-welfare fund question was so important it should be considered separately.
Allott vigorously criticized the Kennedy-Douglas-Ives bill, however, saying it would not do the necessary regulatory job.

Report Rebels Have Fled From Mountain City

Army Spokesman Says Sumatran Troops are Deployed to South

Jakarta, Indonesia, — The Sumatran rebel regime has fled from its mountain capital of Bukittinggi 28 miles southward to the village of Batu-sangkar high in the Barisan mountain range, a government army spokesman said today.
Five rebel companies totaling about 1,000 men were reported deployed about Batu-sangkar to protect insurgent Premier Sjafruddin Prawiranegara, his ministers and communications equipment which has been moved to the new capital.
Another 800 rebels under Col. Achmad Hussein, military leader of the 2-month-old revolt, were said to have dug in at Solok, 23 miles east of the captured port city of Padang and about 40 miles south of Bukittinggi.

Chief Objective
Lt. Col. Rudy Pirngadie, chief, said Solok is the chief objective now of the 6,000-man force that took Padang Thursday. The army said last night its forces had captured the town of Indarung, eight miles from Padang, in the drive toward Solok. But he conceded that the town would be difficult to take because of its location in the mountains.
The Indonesian air force said its planes had bombed Solok but a spokesman gave no details.
Pirngadie denied rebel charges that the Jakarta government had used either the recently purchased Russian ships or their crews in the Padang landings. He said the ships used were mostly those of the Indonesian Pelayan Shipping company.
Besides the troops at Solok and Batu-sangkar, the rebels have two other battalions, one near Padangpandjang 25 miles south of Bukittinggi and the other south of Padang.

Deported Draftsman on His Way to Copenhagen

William Heikkila Put Aboard Plane at Vancouver by U. S. Immigration Agents

Amsterdam, Netherlands — William Heikkila, deported from the United States as a former communist, left by plane today for Copenhagen.

Heikkila

Heikkila was "fuming mad" and hostile to guards while held there for 39 hours before being taken aboard the plane for Europe before noon Sunday.
The paper said when the takeoff was delayed for two hours, other passengers were allowed to return to the waiting room but Heikkila was kept on the plane.
A federal district judge in San Francisco yesterday called for arguments next Friday on whether immigration authorities should be ordered to that it was not.

Heikkila had expected to catch a plane for Helsinki yesterday afternoon but his plane from Canada was late and he missed his connection.
No Money, Passport
Presumably he planned to catch a plane for Finland in Copenhagen.

Heikkila's wife said in San Francisco that he had only 30 cents in his pocket and no passport when arrested Friday, as he left work there. But police at Schiphol airport said he had money and a valid Finnish passport when he arrived, and he spent the night in an Amsterdam hotel.

The onetime communist had gone through long federal court proceedings in an effort to remain in the United States. U. S. immigration agents rushed him out of the country without letting him telephone his wife or his lawyers.

'Fuming Mad'
Heikkila was born in Finland of naturalized American parents then on a business trip. He was taken to the United States when 23 months old but was never naturalized.

Rising Costs Creating Economic Squeeze for Most U. S. Publishers

Increased Productivity Answer, ANPA President Tells Members

New York — Many American newspapers are caught in an economic squeeze because rising costs are not being matched with additional income, William Dwight, president of the American Newspaper Publishers association (ANPA), said today.

This crisis, he added, can be met only by increased productivity, which in turn depends on enlightened management and labor leadership.

Dwight, publisher of the Holyoke (Mass.) Transcript-Telegram, made the remarks in an address of welcome at an ANPA session to publishers with newspapers having circulations of 10,000 to 50,000 a day.

Sessions of the ANPA are part of newspaper week, held in New York every spring.

Dwight called upon the publishers to "discard temporary expediency thinking" and to take a "positive and realistic look to the future."

Lesson of History

Publishers will continue to press their crusade to protect the "people's right to know," Dwight said, despite consideration by the government of interference with advertising and the thwarting of access to news.

At the same time, two other discussion groups, representing newspapers with circulations under 10,000 and over 50,000, respectively, were meeting.

Edward J. Hughes, of the Westchester (N. Y.) newspapers, told the 10,000-to-50,000 group:

"The lesson of history is that, if economic freedom be lost or destroyed, all other freedoms, including those of the mind and spirit, soon perish. Through greater efficiency, we are fully justified in seeking greater prosperity so that the press may be free to fight for all the freedoms of all Americans."

ANPA vice president, D. Tennant Bryan, of the Richmond (Va.) Times-Dispatch, said publishers are facing a situation in which costs are continuing to rise while revenues are static or going down.

AP Directors

This, he said, is having a "dramatic" impact on the net profit. Members of the Associated Press reelected all six directors whose terms expired this year.

The board holds its organization meeting today.

Directors reelected are: Benjamin M. McKelway, of the Washington Sunday Star, who is also president of the Associated Press; John R. Reitemeyer, of the Hartford (Conn.) Courant; Richard W. Clarke, of the New York Daily News and Sunday News; W. H. Cowles, of the Spokane Spokesman-Review; Nathaniel R. Howard, of the Cleveland News, and Raymond L. Spangler, of the Redwood City (Calif.) ## Sen. Proxmire Wins Seat on Ag Committee

Washington — Sen. Proxmire, D-Wis., was appointed Monday to a senate agriculture committee vacancy created by the death of Sen. W. Kerr Scott, D-N.C.

Proxmire gave up his post-office committee membership, which the senate Democratic steering committee reassigned to Sen. Clark, D-Pa., Clark had relinquished the post when Proxmire came to the senate last year.

The junior Wisconsin senator continues as a member of the senate's banking and currency committee, the District of Columbia committee and the select committee on small business.

Proxmire issued a statement saying, "The people of Wisconsin are grateful, I am sure, for the appointment of their senator to the senate committee on agriculture and forestry."

"To become the first Wisconsin senator appointed to this committee in more than 40 years offers me a great opportunity."

"The farmer is the No. 1 victim of economic injustice. We can't have a prosperous country until we have a prosperous agriculture. This is the big problem facing the senate committee on which I now serve."

Red Pole Leader To Visit Communist Rulers in Hungary

Budapest, Hungary — Polish communist leader Wladyslaw Gomulka is expected here May 9 for a 3-day visit with Hungary's communist rulers.

Gomulka has been expected from some time. The visit may be a sign of tightening solidarity of communist countries against Yugoslavia.

The Polish and the Hungarian communist parties, like most others, followed Moscow's lead in not sending an official delegation to the Yugoslav party conference which opened today in Ljubljana.

Gomulka's visit also appeared to be one of a series designed to strengthen the position of communist party leader Janos Kadar within the Hungarian party. Nikita Khrushchev came to Budapest right after he was named premier.

Crime Weights for No One; Reducing Salon $150 Lighter

Dallas — A couple of bandits forced some 20 women to strip, pistol-whipped one and reduced the take at a reducing salon by $150 last night.

"It was awful," complained Manager Esther Ragland. "They walked in like they owned the place, herding two or three women ahead of them from the entrance hall."

She said the young pair, wearing ivy league togs, came in just before closing time while two women attendants and an estimated 18 clients were present.

Mrs. Ragland said one of the men "told us this was a holdup and started pushing everybody toward the back of the studio."

Steam Room
"He started shoving everybody into the steam room. That's when he hit one girl in the face with his pistol. It laid her cheek wide open. She (Mrs. Patsy Flicker, 23, an attendant) made some wisecrack when he shoved her."

She said the gunman, snarling death threats, forced the women into a steam room, shut the door and stood outside. He ordered everyone to disrobe and throw out the clothing.

He then ordered Mrs. Ragland, still dressed, to the front office and made her hand over all the money.

"Then he marched me back to the steam room, opened the door and shoved me inside. He came right in with me and made me take off my clothes."

"It Was Terrible"
"It was terrible. All the ladies were sitting on the benches without a stitch on. Everyone of them was scared to death."

"He told us he'd kill the first woman who opened the door. He told us to stay inside 15 minutes."

"We did."
She said they came out, retrieved their clothes and one woman ran across the street to call police.

Mrs. Ragland said the second bandit stood around with a pistol in his hand, but said little.

Hospital Names Directors at Annual Meeting

Approves Mortgage
To Lutheran Aid Not
To Exceed $500,000

Two new directors were elected, three directors were reelected and a mortgage not to exceed $500,000 was approved during the annual meeting of the Appleton Memorial Hospital association Monday night.

New directors, named for 3-year terms, are Charles R. Seaborne, executive vice president of Thilmany Pulp and Paper company, and Leonard E. Pasek, assistant to the president of Kimberly-Clark corporation. They succeed Lyman Clark and Abraham Sigman.

Sigman, however, will remain on the board ex officio as retiring president to replace ex officio member E. W. Saiberlich.

Reelected to 3-year terms were Mrs. Stephen Freschl, Herbert Crane and Reinhold J. Hoerning.

Mortgage to AAL
The mortgage, not to exceed $500,000, will be given to the Aid Association for Lutherans, the association decided unanimously.

The mortgage is needed because some money, although pledged, is unpaid. The loan would cover building completion and operational expenses.

In his annual report, Robert E. Griffiths, hospital administrator, noted 489 adults and children have been admitted to the hospital for a total of 2,914 patient days of care in the institution's 59 days of activity.

He said 128 newborns have been cared for in a total of 586 patient days, while the hospital has been averaging 52 per cent of capacity since it opened.

Highest occupancy to date has been 64 adults and children, while 18 was the highest infant count in one day.

The board will hold a reorganization meeting at 7:30 Monday night in the hospital conference room to elect officers and appoint committees.

Chamber Never Endorses Fund Drives by Phone

The Appleton Chamber of Commerce never approves the soliciting by telephone of funds or ticket sales for any cause, however worthy, Chamber Sec. Kenneth Corbett said today.

"Members of the chamber frequently call the chamber office to inquire regarding the merits of the cause and the organization promoting it," said Corbett. "A stock answer to such calls is that regardless of how worthy the cause or how fine the local organization might be, it is not ethical to make such a solicitation."

"One never gets acquainted with a program or becomes a supporter of any cause where the solicitation is made by telephone," Corbett explains. "Because of the expense of the program, the sponsoring organization only realizes a small percentage of the net proceeds."

Telephone solicitation is by

Sees No Peace in Middle East Until Arabs Halt Boycott

Melbourne, Australia — There will be no peace in the Middle East until the Arab states stop their boycott of Israel, James G. McDonald, former U. S. ambassador to Israel, said today.

McDonald, visiting Australia at the invitation of the Zionist federation, said the Arabs hoped they could boycott Israel to such an extent that the state eventually would collapse or be weakened to a point where it could be destroyed.

But "Israel is getting stronger steadily," McDonald continued, "and even though the Arab nations are being armed by Russia, the Israelis feel they can handle them — except if the Russians actually man the weapons."

He added Russia would not let her soldiers fight on behalf of the Arabs for fear of starting a world war.

far the most unbusinesslike and uneconomical method one can devise to raise money for a worthy cause, he said.

Rape and Robbery Charges Face Four

Milwaukee — Four of the five young men accused of the rape of two young women and robbery of their escorts were charged with rape, assault and unarmed robbery Monday.

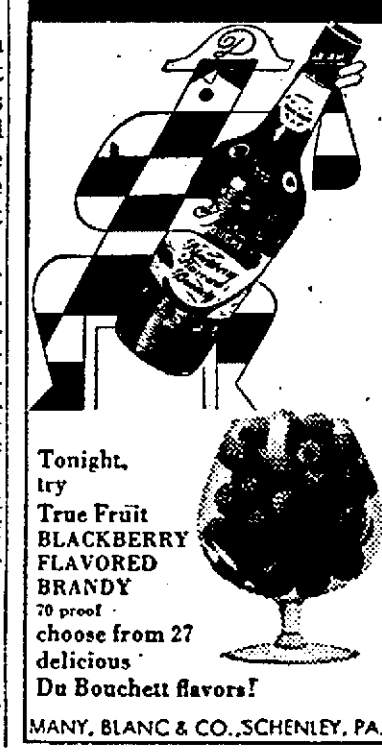

Dale York, 25, and Joseph Simanson, 25, both of Milwaukee, were charged with rape and unarmed robbery.

Robbery warrants named Conrad Dalgord, 26, and Duane Kraemer, 23, also of Milwaukee.

All four are being sought. The fifth man was held pending the determination of charges.

Hugh O'Connell, assistant district attorney, said the two girls, aged 15 and 17, were raped and their male companions beaten and robbed of $65 early Sunday near a gravel pit on the northwest side of Milwaukee county.

Propaganda Contest Raises Question Of What Soviet Position Really Is

BY WALTER LIPPMAN

In the propaganda contest of which we have just now had another round, our basic position is that we do not wish to suspend the testing of nuclear weapons and that we do not in the near future wish to have a summit meeting in which Eisenhower confronts Khrushchev. This is, of course, a difficult position to argue in a world which is terrified by the race in nuclear armaments and is hoping compulsively that in a meeting at the summit some kind of accommodation might be reached.

Dulles, who has the hard task of arguing the official American case, is talking like a man who knows that the best he can do is to fight a delaying action — to avoid a decisive commitment on the tests and on the summit meeting.

The crucial question at this point is what is the basic Soviet position. Is it that, having just completed their own series of tests, their objective is to prevent us from holding our forthcoming tests? It cannot be that simple. For such a maneuver could easily be defeated by proposing to suspend our tests, after we, like they, have completed our tests.

Or is it that the Soviets know that, what with Dr. Teller, Adm. Strauss and most of the Pentagon, we intend to go on testing—as indeed Dulles indicated at his press conference—and that, therefore, the Soviets can propose to cease testing? For they will know that we will not cease and that they can then continue. Or is it that the Soviets do not mean to cease but are relying on being able to cheat by holding undetected tests?

Power Balance
My own view is that the main Russian position is founded not upon gimmicks and propaganda tricks but upon their estimate of the overall balance of power in the world as between their coalition and ours. To suspend nuclear testing is in fact to freeze the development of nuclear weapons, and if that were done now, the world balance of power would be favorable to them. They know they will not be attacked, and they have or are about to have ample weapons to neutralize any military pressure on the Communist orbit. Along with this, they have superior military power consisting of conventional forces and existing nuclear weapons as against any of the countries on their periphery.

In the west, on the other hand, there is no prospect that the democracies will support a combined military establishment comparable with that of the Soviet Union—except for one possibility. This is the development of cheap nuclear weapons to replace massive armies.

For this reason, so I believe, there is determined resistance inside the western governments to interference with the evolution of nuclear weapons. This resistance has its center among the soldiers and scientists who, believing that war is not improbable, feel acutely their own responsibility in case war breaks out.

Risk Both Ways
Undeniably, there would be a risk in suspending the tests and freezing the development of nuclear weapons. But there is also a risk in continuing the tests. It is that the race of armaments will go on, will indeed be intensified, with no certainty whatever that the Soviet Union will not forge ahead of us in this field as it has forged ahead of us in the field of rockets.

There is no built-in guarantee that Dr. Teller and Adm. Strauss can create nuclear armaments which the Russians cannot beat or even top. For when the Russians concentrate their efforts on a particularly military objective, they are a formidable nation.

We have to weigh in the balance the risk of freezing the development of nuclear weapons as against the risk of intensified competition in the development of the nuclear weapons. This is the fundamental issue, and this country is entitled to have it explained and debated. Even as propaganda, such a debate would do us good, much more good than the notes and press conferences with which we present our face to the world. For it would show the serious people of the world that in these great affairs we know how to be candid and that we are indeed serious.

Claims School Critics Should Fight for Money

Watson Says Changes in Methods and Program Would Take More Tax Dollars

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

Madison — The head of the Wisconsin public school system believes that those who are freely criticizing the school system should also stand ready to demand more taxation for support of the schools.

Watson

In an article in the current magazine of the Wisconsin Education association, State Supt. of Schools George Watson writes what might be interpreted as a refutation of those who have complained about American public school instruction since the recent warnings about probable Russian superiority.

Watson does not deny that "overhauling the schools" may be needed.

Warns of Cost

But the drastic adjustments in method and program demanded by some, he warned, will bring about more costly schools and more school taxes.

Community standards and parental ideas of schooling will also be required to be upgraded immensely, he held.

If the country decides the good teacher is as important as any other professional worker, it will cost tax dollars in a number presently not contemplated, he observed. "Every critic of education must be a fearless advocate of more tax support for our schools."

Watson also struck out against the idea that science must be emphasized above all else in the school curricula, or that the traditional American idea of schools for all should be abandoned.

"The destiny of America and the free world does not lie within the area of the slide rule and the test tube exclusively. We must bargain with our enemies from a posture of strong competence which must include scientific competence. But it must include also a devotion to freedom and to liberty, a skill and a devotion and a competence in free government, and a continuing insistence that all governments everywhere exist for the people and that people do not exist for the government," he argued.

The head of the state school office also implied a fear that some critics of contemporary school methods would impose a selectivity in the school admissions system.

Opposes Selectivity

"We must continue our free public schools as schools for all the youth—not for a selected few," he declared.

Watson also suggested that some critics are unfair in attributing the shortcomings of the school system to their teachers and administrators.

"The youth of America acts that which American adults say is important. American mothers and fathers cannot turn their boys and girls over to the schools and expect the schools to overcome their mothers and fathers. Who has determined the goals and the desires of our youth? The schools cannot establish, develop, or insist upon goals and standards greatly different from those of the parents. From whom in America has today's youth learned about prize security rather than initiative, about selfishness rather than dedication, about clock watching rather than doing the job?" he demanded.

play tells the story of Conrad Cantzen, who died in 1945 after playing small roles for 50 years. His earnings never exceeded $55 a week, but by living as a pauper, Cantzen was able to leave a fund of almost a quarter million dollars, dedicated to buying shoes for needy performers.

Our Counties' Future

In the last half century county government has come to seem less and less important to the people, especially urban people. Many residents of cities and villages consider county government as something of chiefly rural concern; some have even thought that the county's jurisdiction extends only to rural areas. Undoubtedly one of the contributing causes has been the fact that the citizen does not receive a county tax bill (county taxes are included in his municipal tax bill) and thus he does not have an annual reminder of the fact that his county government is an important consumer of his tax dollar.

Yet we may see a reversal of this trend in the next decade. There is a strong possibility, in fact, that a quarter-century from now county government may have regained or even surpassed its former importance, and may become the main focal point of citizen interest in local government.

The reason for this is today's surge toward some form of metropolitan government for urban areas that have grown rapidly in recent decades and are struggling with problems caused by a multiplicity of municipal units. It has become apparent that some higher form of local government is desirable, one which would have some authority over the municipalities, and to which the municipalities could turn for help in meeting the difficult problems that face them.

Experiments in metropolitan government are being conducted in several places; in some cases full-fledged metropolitan governments have been created or proposed such as at Toronto and St. Louis, in other cases somewhat hesitant steps toward this goal have been taken, for example in the creation of metropolitan sewage or water districts, metropolitan school districts, regional planning commissions and the like.

But the creation of a new level of government means that we are creating a new taxing authority, and many students of government object that the addition of one more taxing authority means eventually that the total tax take in the area will be greater. We think there is merit in this objection, and thus we have been very interested in the step taken by the people of the Miami (Fla.) metropolitan area where instead of creating a new level of government they are attempting to transform their already-existing county government into a metropolitan government.

This is an idea that Wisconsin should seriously consider. County government already exists as the only level of government between the municipality and the state, and it seems much more logical to transform it to meet today's needs than to set up alongside it a new and duplicating form of government.

Farming Without Land

Land — good rich crop land — is disappearing at a tremendous rate as cities expand and spread out over adjacent farms, covering the land with buildings and paving.

In the six counties of southeastern Wisconsin, which is one of the state's most rapidly growing areas in population, it is estimated that approximately 38 acres of farm land disappear every day for building and transportation uses. The same loss of land for agriculture is taking place in the vicinity of each growing city. In some localities, as along the Atlantic seaboard from New York to Washington, tillable soil is disappearing under brick and concrete at a high rate.

Because of the farm surplus problem which has troubled the nation for many years, it has not been possible to stir up much excitement over the loss of land to construction. But the Buckeye corporation of Springfield, Ohio, is getting ready to meet this and other problems for the dairy farmer.

Buckeye is offering a grass incubator which permits a farmer to produce fresh green grass the year round. The incubator comes in two sizes. The smaller one costs about $2,800. It is 12 feet long, 10 feet wide

But if our counties are to serve this function extensive reforms in the way they are set up and the way they operate are essential. The first such reform should be in the matter of representation; the present requirement that there be one supervisor for each town and for each city or village ward is outdated and generally results in over-representation of rural areas and under-representation of urban areas. Whether or not we attempt to transform our counties into urban super-governments, the system of representation should be reformed so that each county board represents the people on a population basis.

Once this reform is accomplished, we should then study our present 71 counties — their size, their number and their boundaries — with a view toward revising the whole system to reflect today's geographic, economic and population facts of life. Very likely fewer but larger counties could more efficiently serve Wisconsin's rural population, and other counties which would be small in area but large in population could be created to encompass the state's principal urban centers such as Milwaukee, Madison, the Fox Cities, Green Bay and the like. This system would eliminate the frustrating city-rural rivalries that exist on so many county boards, and the urban county governments could accomplish many of the things that individual municipalities have been unable to accomplish through cooperative efforts.

The third basic reform that would be necessary to bring our counties up to Twentieth century standards would be the creation of an executive department in county government, headed by a county executive who would be elected by the people just as city mayors, village presidents and the state's governor are elected today. Probably the legislation authorizing this should be permissive rather than compulsory, since the predominantly rural counties might not feel the need for such a system. With a county executive, responsibility for the county government's operations could be pinpointed; this is not possible under the present system of government by committee.

These ideas may seem visionary to some and radical to others, and some people who would like to see them tried out might still insist that it is impractical to think about them in the face of the massive resistance that can be expected to be thrown against any such thoroughgoing shake-up of our present forms of county government. We invite discussion on the subject. Certainly we hope that the two legislative committees now studying urban problems in Wisconsin will not overlook the role that the county might play in solving these problems.

and 8 feet high. It contains 60 stainless steel trays in which the grass is grown at controlled temperatures. Artificial light is supplied and the required plant food and minerals drip down on the seed in the trays in appropriate amounts.

With the smaller incubator a farmer can produce 45 tons of fresh grass per year. That is said to be enough to feed 20 to 30 head of dairy cattle. The larger model is approximately twice as large, costs about twice as much and feeds twice as many cattle. To harvest, the farmer merely peels the grass mat, roots and all, out of a tray and feeds it to the cattle.

Farmers using the incubators say it is necessary to spend about 30 minutes a day on the incubator including the time spent in removing the fully-grown grass and refilling the trays with the seeds. The cost is said to run about $10 to $14 per ton for grass grown in this manner.

While these incubators seem to offer the dairy farmer the advantage of being able to expand his herd indefinitely without worrying about finding more pasture land, it also carries a veiled threat since it might permit dairying to become profitable in areas of the country where climate and other conditions are now considered unfavorable.

Bores From Within

Anyone who thinks the cold war with Russia and the rocket race for the moon are the most serious subjects of Washington society hasn't talked to the right people. These include the various social secretaries whose duty it is to arrange parties of congenial influential citizens.

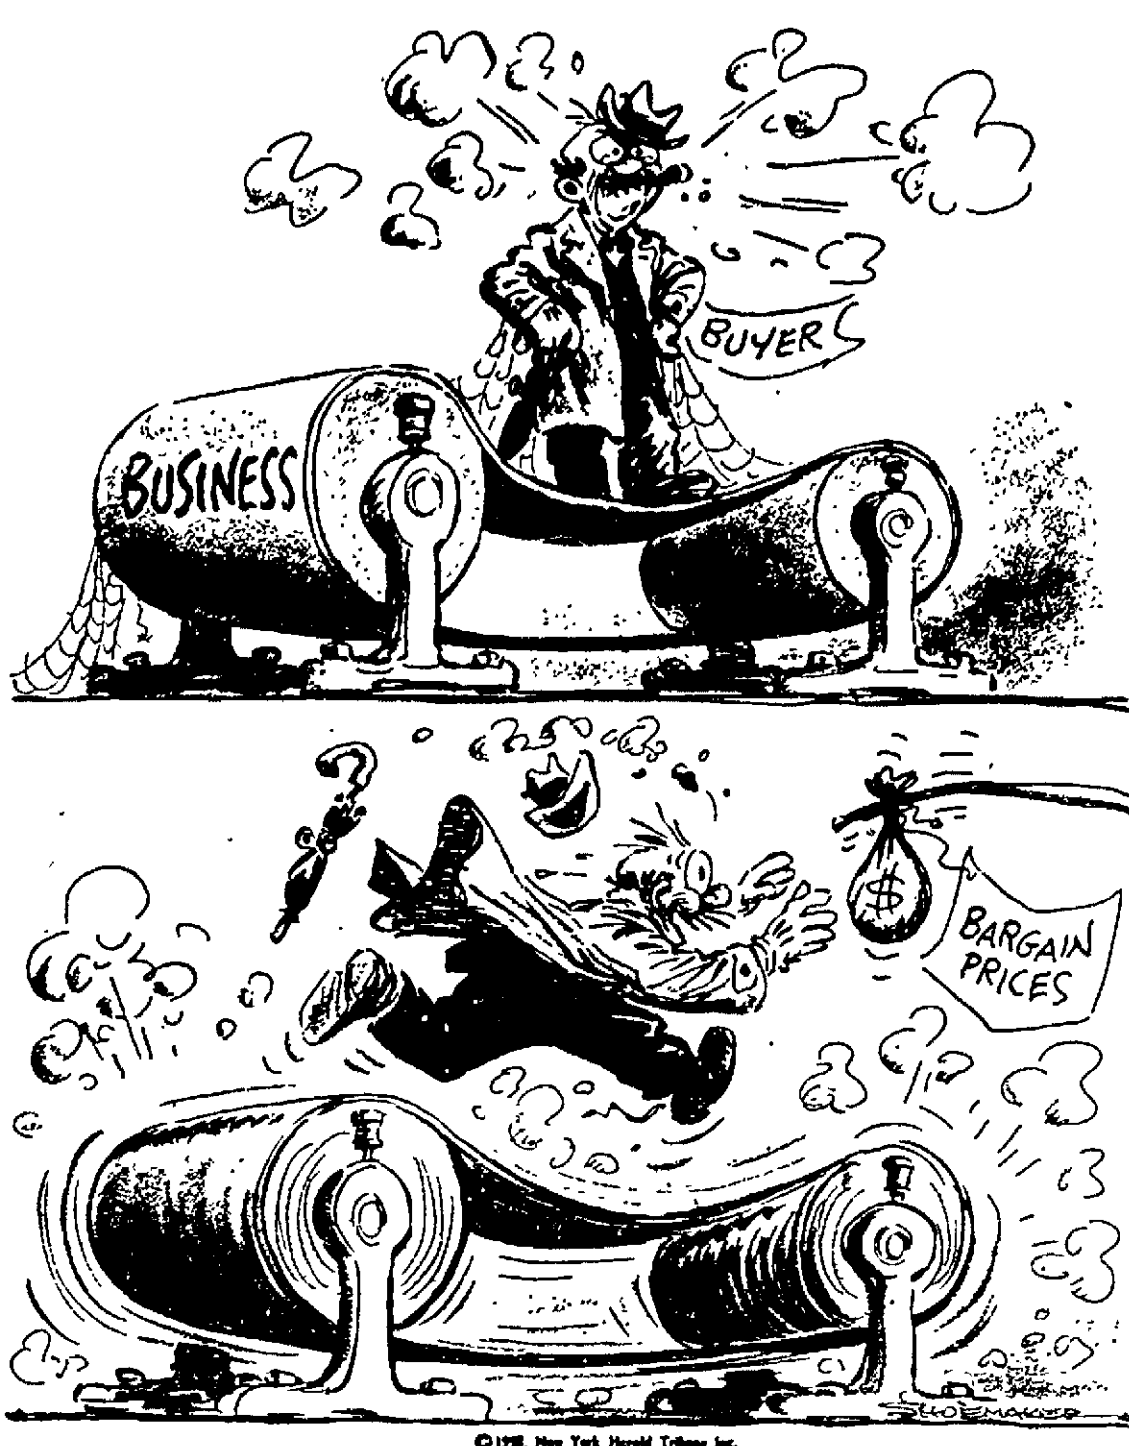

A bore, in Washington society, like a bore anywhere in the world presumably, is simply someone whom nobody enjoys being with. A social secretary can limit invitations of course. But, according to Miss Regina Grau of the Colombian embassy, simply loads of people call up and request invitations to important functions and the problem is to turn them down without causing an international incident.

Mrs. Rachel Wahl of the Brazilian embassy sees the problem as even more serious. "Do you realize that anybody in Washington can go to a party if he leaves a calling card? But they can't do it very well here because I check in the city directory and if it shows that you are selling ties down on F street, we know that you are not material for us."

The international aspects of all this partying cannot be overlooked. There are plenty of modern novels about how a wife's poor taste in cocktail mix or shade of stocking cost her husband a promotion, and there always was a suspicion that Charles Evan Hughes didn't get elected to the presidency simply because he unintentionally snubbed a California political boss who consequently didn't deliver the votes.

But at least the new Russian ambassador and his wife, who are reportedly fitting well into Washington's social scheme, shouldn't have too much trouble. Social success on the ultra level seems very little different from one form of international politics—the mingling smile, the extended glass of vodka and the sneer and quick twist of the knife when the back is turned.

Howard Fast has had a long career as a member of the communist party and as a writer.

The two careers were intertwined as ideas and actions as in all human beings. He has now left the communist party in anger, in bitterness, in a mood of triumph over the forces that shackled him for so many years.

He has written a book, "The Naked God," which has been reviewed so diversely by different professional book reviewers, that I, an anti-communist, desire to give what I hope will be regarded as an impartial view of this extremely important human document.

Fast makes no effort to carry forward his personal problem by literary forensics. He tells a simple story of a youth who wants justice and goes the wrong way about finding it. To expect more than this admission of error in the first full statement of the case is to expect too much.

Doesn't Tell All
Men do not leave causes to which they have devoted their lives without a degree of regret, of shame, even of uncertainty. Over the years, it may develop that Howard Fast does the final job, probably in a novel, of exposing the shabbiness of the movement to which he gave his talents and his years. Certainly, one who believes that the writer must express himself at any cost, because that is his genius and his gift from God, cannot lie fallow because of a disappointment, no matter how deep.

At a point, remote, it is true, Fast's life and mine paralleled, although years apart. Practically children, we both worked after school hours in a public library in Harlem, stacking books on shelves. He got 25 cents an hour; my wage came to $2.50 a week. He seems to complain at the youth he lost; but we both lived among books and read everything there was to read. We probably worked

In the same branch library, but he is younger than I am.

Most of us lived in comparative poverty in those environs but few of us overthrew the God of our fathers and accepted communism as a way of life. One cannot read Fast's book, "The Naked God," without feeling that the initial forces that bring young people into this and similar movements of protest are different from what they believe them to be. Often, it is accidental; often it is loneliness, the eternal search for friends; often it is a revolt from the ugliness of living in foul-smelling, noisy tenements. Who can ever know what sparks revolt against an environment, out of which one can grow into a better life without becoming enslaved to a cause that is narrow, stultifying, hateful, and from which, when he reaches full maturity he has to rebel all over again — and to rebel when it is so much harder, particularly as one develops a vested interest in error.

Quoted from the Appleton Crescent for the week of April 26, 1879.

Arrangements have been made for a freight line from Buffalo, N.Y., to Appleton and Portage by a continuous water route.

The Union Steamboat Line, which connects with the Erie road at Buffalo in carrying lake freights to Green Bay and other points, has made arrangements with McKenzie and Crawford for a through line of freighting.

This firm will also run passenger boats between Appleton, Green Bay and Oshkosh, and there undoubtedly will be more visitors to the lower Fox this season than during the past seven years.

The necessity for a summer hotel at Telulah Park is already manifest.

A stinging attack on the Wisconsin Cooperative Milk Pool was made by Supervisor T. H. Ryan at the morning session of the Outagamie county board when the Appleton supervisor suggested that the board authorize the sheriff to use as many men and guns as necessary to insure protection of those farmers desiring to haul milk in case another strike takes place.

Four speakers and a program by the Appleton High school band were to feature the meeting of the Outagamie county taxpayers' alliance at the courthouse. The speakers were Elmer R. Honkamp, William H. Kreiss, William F. Wolf and Horace C. Baker.

Mrs. Guy Barlow was elected president of Appleton Fiction club meeting at the home of Mrs. Howard Nussbicker, Appleton. Mrs. George Wood was chosen vice president and Mrs. Lacey Horton, secretary and treasurer. The program committee included Mrs. M. G. Clark, Mrs. Frank Wilson and Mrs. Cyrus Daniel.

Dittmore Should Get Political Experience

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

Madison — It may be that the professional critic of public affairs is sometimes prone to idealize the requirements and qualifications of high public office holders. It is doubtless true that some very ordinary men have occasionally attained the high office of United States senator and governor, for example, and the system has managed to survive.

Yet it may be assumed that the average citizen, reflecting upon these offices, has an instinctive adherence to the democratic idea that the best of the men available should be installed in these powerful and extremely important offices.

Which brings up the question why in every representative Wisconsin election there are eager aspirants for those big jobs who stand virtually alone in the conviction that they are suitable candidates for them.

A current example of the phenomenon is Ray Dittmore, a young Milwaukeean who is assiduously traveling the state in his quest for the Republican nomination for United States senator, but who has virtually no measurable chance of getting it.

THE MAN

Dittmore is an attractive, 36-year-old businessman who to all accounts has had considerable success as a small-scale manufacturer in Milwaukee since he was discharged from military service after World War II.

He has a good personal appearance. He speaks well, if somewhat naively, on the issues of the day. He is not an eccentric, as far as can be deduced from the cursory impressions of those upon whom he is smilingly calling in his campaign.

Every Wisconsin primary produces a number of scars and his scars show in this book. But he has stated his case and he is, in the freedom of this country, entitled to state it as often and in as many different ways as he can. Those who believe that because he once was so abjectly under party discipline, he cannot now, in our great troubles, serve the United States valiantly, are without truth or knowledge. Fast can, if he will, serve America faithfully and valuably for the rest of his years.

Boating Facilities for State Park Discussed

Small Craft Landing to Mark First Permanent Structure at High Cliff

Boating facilities, including a permanent boat landing for small craft and an enclosed harbor basin on the northeast shore of Lake Winnebago, highlighted discussions of the High Cliff Forest Park association board when it met Monday afternoon with three members of the state conservation department.

Conservation officials at the meeting were C. L. Harrington, Madison, chief superintendent of forest and parks; Clyde Smith, Campbellsport, head of Kettle Moraine parks, southeastern area; and Robert Espeseth, Madison, state park planner. The session was held in the directors' room of Home Mutuals Insurance company.

The High Cliff Forest park board went on record backing both projects. The small craft landing is the more immediate of the two and may be constructed this summer.

Plans in 90 Days
Conservation officials told the group the state planning department will start drawing up plans for the permanent landing, proposing to deliver them to the forest park association in 90 days.

Such a structure, according to Smith, will cost around $4,000. It was the opinion of the board that most or all of the money for the project can be raised locally by the park association.

The feeling was expressed that people in the 4-county area are anxious about getting the park started as a going concern, and that a permanent rather than a temporary boat landing is a logical step in that direction.

This will be the first permanent park structure and will be along the lower Cliff shore near the present temporary picnic sites. At the present time, 35 acres have been cleared as picnic sites, including access roads, parking areas, tables and fireplaces.

The boat harbor is a different matter, a long term project initiated by the association's harbor committee under Chairman S. F. Shattuck, Neenah. Such a harbor must clear with various governmental agencies and meet approval of the conservation commission, it was pointed out.

To start action in this area, the board authorized Shattuck to appoint a committee to present the proposed harbor plans to the conservation commission and other governmental agencies. Plans for a harbor development in lake Winnebago must be approved by the state engineer, the public service commission and the war department.

Although boat harbor plans are only in the recommendation stage, according to Shattuck, they are based on professional exploration of the High Cliff lake area by a Sturgeon Bay firm.

The recommendation of the boat harbor committee, as presented by Shattuck, is that the harbor be built at the northeast corner of the lake at the location of the old steamboat landing of former years. There are acceptable depths of water at this point, he pointed out, and such a harbor would be protected to the north by the curve of the shore with its high bluff. There also is an access road to the area, he said.

The committee's suggestion is for a harbor along 600 feet of shoreline, enclosed by a lake wall of staggered steel sheet piling. The latter material was suggested because of the red silty clay found below the bed of the lake.

Harrington pointed out the need for supporting financial assistance to get a state park underway, saying state park funds are too limited to make "any real advance." He discussed three phases of park planning—its physical boundaries, the projected planning or layout and the final but critical stage of financing proposed developments.

Boston Abolitionist, Civil War Veteran Give Names to Chairs

By Marguerite Schumann

The umber drama of those days when a man in blue shot across the Mason-Dixon line at his brothers in gray hangs over Lawrence college's first efforts to achieve the status of a grown-up school with endowed professional chairs.

The first two men to lend their names and their substance to the faculty chair idea were inextricably bound up with war between the states. One was a militant Boston abolitionist; the other a Civil war veteran himself and brother to Lawrence's best-remembered gold star cavalry hero.

The abolitionist was the Honorable Lee Claflin of Boston, who believed so passionately in the inalienable rights of all races that he ultimately founded a Negro university in the south which still bears his name.

The war veteran was lumberman Charles N. Paine of Oshkosh, brother to Civil war hero Nathan Paine, one-time Lawrence student (class of '60), and one-time faculty member in the commercial department (1856-58).

First Endowed Chair

Lawrence got its first endowed chair through the good offices of its first full-fledged president, Dr. Edward Cooke.

President Cooke had hopped-scotched about the east coast, as only a Methodist clergyman can, running a couple of seminaries and preaching in Boston. Then, in 1853, he was invited to come to the midwest to guide the destinies of Lawrence, which was just then converting itself from a preparatory school to a college.

Cooke seemed quite calm about the fact that although he was the first man to accept the president's chair, he was the fourth one to be elected. Before the courageous Cooke accepted the job of leading Lawrence, the trustees had formally elected three other men—in rapid succession—to the chair.

Those men—the Rev. W. D. Clarke, the Rev. C. Kingsley (afterwards bishop in the Methodist church) and the Rev. H. Bannister (afterward a professor at Garrett Theological seminary)—came, looked over the grounds which were largely forest, and left again. The humiliated trustees "then sent a committee east, and negotiated, before electing," an early student remembered.

Hon. Lee Claflin

The committee found Cooke at Maine Wesleyan seminary. When Cooke packed his high silk hat (later a landmark at Lawrence commencement) and headed for Wisconsin, he also took a healthy slice of the seminary student body along with him to be college students at Lawrence.

Early Settlers

One parent, hearing that Cooke wanted his son to accompany him to the frontier, announced: "I am not sending my boy out to Wisconsin alone. We will all go." That is how Appleton got a good number of its early settlers: the college in the woods was the bait.

President Cooke led a vigorous life in Lawrence's early years. He came to Appleton by steamer from Chicago to Sheboygan, then by plank road to Fond du Lac, and back on a boat for the trip to the head of Lake Winnebago.

At his inauguration, the speaker's platform collapsed, and the contents of a large whale-oil lamp were precipitated into his celebrated silk hat. In 1854, he dedicated Main hall by laying its capstone. Remembering the violent doings at his inauguration, it is assumed that Cooke exercised considerable caution as he zig-zagged his way to the roof by way of wheelbarrow paths, to fit the final stone.

Once he had a roof safely over Lawrence college's head, President Cooke started to beat the bushes for endowment and endowed chairs specifically. His first effort, aimed at the Wisconsin Methodist conference, seemed to go swimmingly, for in 1855 the conference carried in its minutes that $10,000 was to be raised for a chair of Hebrew and Biblical literature at Lawrence.

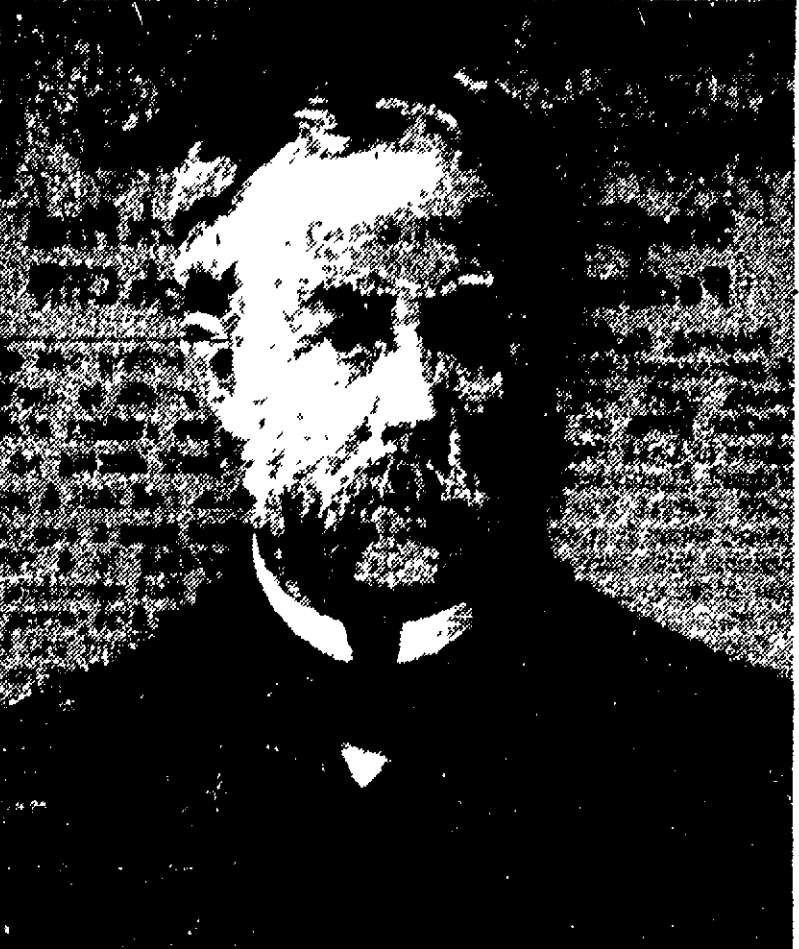

By 1858, nearly half of the amount was said to be raised. For five years this project was listed in the conference minutes; then there was an ominous silence on the subject. It is presumed that the money was swallowed up in buildings, for the fire of 1857 reduced the campus by 50 per cent.

Then President Cooke decided to try the east, and dispatched the Rev. Reeder Smith, acting as the college financial agent, to Boston with a figurative tin cup in hand.

Calls on Claflin

High on Reeder Smith's list of People to Call On was the Hon. Lee Claflin, who had been a friend of President Cooke's since the latter's preaching days in Boston.

Claflin came from a distinguished Boston family, one of whom had been a governor of Massachusetts. In October, 1859, Smith sent back the joyful news that Claflin had subscribed $5,000 to Lawrence. Several years later he doubled the amount, and from 1864 on, the college catalog carried the president's name over the title, "Lee Claflin,

Charles N. Paine
From a painting

professor of ethics and civil policy."

For three years, from 1863-66, Claflin was on the Lawrence board of trustees, but there is no record that he ever saw the college he benefited. In fact, the college files now bear a letter written to him on June 16, 1865, inviting him to come to commencement in two weeks. With the speed of the mails between Boston and Appleton in 1865, it was not likely that the invitation would be accepted!

While Claflin did Lawrence many a good turn in the early '60s, he did Lawrence a bad turn at the end of the Civil war when he persuaded President Cooke to take over a Negro college he was putting on its feet in Orangeburg, S. C. It was known until that moment as South Carolina Agricultural college, but since that time has been called Lee Claflin university.

Friend of Education

Regardless of where he was bestowing his benevolences, however, Lee Claflin was a friend of education throughout his whole life. At one time he wrote: "If I were to live my life over again, instead of giving less, I should give more. As to leaving a large amount to children after we are gone, it would, in general, do them more hurt than good . . . I was early prospered and early began to be liberal, and since that time I have found it more blessed to give than to receive."

The Lawrence presidents from 1864 until 1891 all occupied the Claflin chair; at that time it was re-assigned to the classics department, when a larger sum became available to the president's position.

The new chair was called the Charles N. Paine Memorial professorship of ethics and Christian evidences.

Charles Paine was a young man of 22 when he and his father, Edward L., made a reconnaissance trip from their home in Canisteo, N. Y., to the village of Oshkosh in 1853, to look over the possibilities of a lumbering business there. There were already a dozen established sawmills when the two men arrived, but the tall pines still grew within 40 miles of Oshkosh, and everyone knew it was going to take billions of board feet of lumber to build houses for all who were pouring into the new state of Wisconsin as settlers.

After the first look-around, it took Edward L. Paine two, years to wind up his affairs in New York and move his family. In 1855 they became residents of Oshkosh, where at least one man bearing the Paine surname was in the lumber business until 1948. In that year, the last male Paine died, although the company name is continued in one of the city's largest industries.

Supervise Logging

Father Edward and son Charles went immediately to work (it was Charles' job to supervise logging operations, while the father looked after the saw-mill), but instead of putting the next-in-age son into the business, they sent him to college instead.

This middle son of Edward and younger brother of Charles was named Nathan, and he came 30 miles up the lake to college at Lawrence. He was a bright lad, who carried his college work with ease and did some teaching of commercial courses on the side.

He was an expert in the flowing Spencerian hand, and a sample of his script is in the Lawrence library, its ink unfaded after a hundred years. There is a booklet of lecture notes in chemistry dated 1859, which contains nuggets of information on such un-chemical things as magnetism, the Aurora Borealis, lightning rods and electricity.

But just to show that the minds of young men wandered on fine spring days then as now, there are elaborate doodles on the name Nathan Addison Paine, a delicately wrought German alphabet, and some of those unbroken-line penman's exercises in swans and flying doves with olive branch in beak. A touch of whimsy appears in the note that "Nathan Paine respectfully informs the public generally that he has taken rooms at the Academy where he professes to give lessons in plain and ornamental penmanship."

Before Nathan Paine graduated in 1850, he had become a charter member of Lawrence's first fraternity, Phi Delta Theta, and had wooed classmate Olive Copeland, who had been in the band of President Cooke's pilgrims from Maine six years before.

Prolongs College

Paine prolonged his college days for another year, and got a law degree from the University of Albany, N.Y. Then he came back to Wisconsin, enlisted in the First regiment of the state cavalry, and before the war was over he was a lieutenant. Both Nathan and Edward Paine went off to fight for the Union before New Year's day, 1862. A year later Edward was wounded, and mustered out for disability. Nathan continued in the service, rising in rank to major, and winning a reputation as a gallant soldier. On July 28, 1864, he was leading a cavalry charge near Campbelltown, Georgia, his arm in a sling from an old wound.

Early in the encounter, he led his men in attacking a superior force, and forced their retreat about three miles. At that point he was met by an entire rebel division. While charging at the head of his advance guard, Paine was hit in the chest by a musket ball. He dismounted, leaned against his horse and, when a brother officer came up, he gasped: "I'm shot—I'm shot dead!" With that he turned to his men and issued his last command: "Forward!"

There were many to mourn his death. Brother Charles returned to the lumber business and eventually became a trustee of Nathan's alma mater. After his death in 1885, his bequest established the Paine memorial chair. Brother George, the baby of the family, named one of his own sons for Nathan, and this second Nathan Paine was a student at Lawrence in the 1880s. When he died in 1948, the Paine name died with him.

The elder Nathan's widow Olive became as celebrated for her longevity as her husband did for his youthful death.

Over 101 Years

When she died in the early 1940s, she was more than 101 years old, and was Lawrence's oldest alumna. She had led a life that few would envy: she was twice widowed by the time she was 44, her only child (Nathan's daughter, whom he had never seen) died in her early 20s; furthermore she had lived through the frontier struggle in two states—Wisconsin in the '50s, and California in the '80s.

Memories of her days baking doughnuts for Wisconsin soldiers while she waited for the young husband who was never to return from war must have been strong in Olive Copeland Paine Lay's mind when she helped fight for the right of re-married Civil war widows to receive pensions.

Her only companion for most of her century-span was a Norwegian maid, who attended her for 70 years, and was with her at death. Yet those who knew her, insisted that Olive Lay was a woman of keenness and serenity to the end. Perhaps she found some comfort in the fact that at Lawrence college at any rate, her family had achieved a kind of immortality.

For the young face of Nathan Paine, major in the Union cavalry, looks down from an oil portrait onto the reading room of the college library, while the name of her brother-in-law has been paired with these men who have been president of Lawrence college on the Paine foundation: Samuel Plantz, Henry Merritt Wriston, Thomas Nichols Barrows, Nathan, Marsh Pusey and Douglas Maitland Knight, Jr.

Manitowoc County Contractors Obtain Order From Court

The Manitowoc county highway department was ordered Monday by Circuit Judge F. H. Schlichting to stop doing private work in the county. The court order was issued at the request of six Manitowoc county contractors.

Under state law, county highway departments are not allowed to contract for private work, with the exception of conservation practices.

The court order enjoined Manitowoc County Highway Commissioner Edward Berke and the rest of the highway committee of the county board from contracting for private work.

The contractors who got the court order are Adolph Cherney and Victor Zerman both of Maribel, Ray Fricke, Ward Schuette and George Radandt, all of Manitowoc, and Albert Streu, Two Rivers.

Working with the contractors to obtain the court order was Alois C. Fischer, Appleton, business agent for Local 13 of the Operating Engineers union. Fischer represents many of the employees of the contractors.

A similar court order was granted last year in Waupaca county.

Inflation Reflected in Telephone Rate Boost

Distribution of Hike in Charges Among Exchanges Not Yet Completed

Madison — The continuing price of inflation is aptly illustrated in the billings of the Wisconsin Telephone Company, which are about to rise again, according to the state public service commission.

The commission has authorized the company to boost its charges—according to a distribution among exchanges not yet completed—about $3,500,000 a year, which is substantially below the increase asked by the utility to achieve what its officers described as a fair rate of return.

Within that technical order reviewing the rate base of the utility, the cost of money and related factors, however, the members of the regulatory commission delivered a lecture on current economic trends.

The basic reason for the higher rates to be charged by the company, the commission explained, is that inflation has increased the cost of capital investment considerably beyond the recent increases in company revenues resulting from gradually expanding business.

Investment Increase

There has been an "attrition" in the rate of the profit return of the company, the order went on, because of the continuous increase in plant investment per customer station during recent years.

The average telephone installed today in the company system represents a gross investment of about $331, against about $308 a year earlier.

Such increases have been continuing without interruption since World War II, it was explained.

Offset Inflation

"Operating economies and increased efficiency of operation tend to offset in part the effect of this inflation, but have fallen far short of completely offsetting this factor. For many years existing plant has been replaced at costs three and four times higher than the cost of the plant replaced. The addition of large amounts of new plant at recent price levels has substantially affected the average price of all plants in service," the regulatory officials observed.

The result has been that the utility now has a plant investment, as calculated for rate-making purposes, of nearly $240,000,000, or about $34,000,000 more than a year ago.

The commission said it intended to permit earnings that would produce 6.1 per cent on that rate base, against 6.42 per cent proposed by the company and about 6 per cent under the previous schedules. The net earnings of the company to be permitted under the current order would be about $14,639,000 yearly.

Railway Express Asks To Discontinue Office At Junction for a Time

Railway Express Agency, Inc., has asked the state public service commission for permission to consolidate its two Appleton offices at the former downtown depot of the Chicago and North Western Railway company by discontinuing its office at the Appleton Junction depot.

The commission will hold a public hearing on the request at 9 o'clock Friday morning, May 6, at Appleton city hall, it was announced today.

A. A. Doecker, express cashier at the downtown depot office, said the firm still intends to centralize its service at the Appleton Junction depot sometime in the future. The request, he said, was made to eliminate one of the two offices in the interim.

North Western officials, when the passenger depot was moved from downtown to the junction, announced that Railway Express services would follow as soon as space is available, probably within a year.

Telephone Firm Gets Rate Hike, PSC Warning

Commission Urges Improvement of Customer Service

Madison — The General Telephone company has won the right to increase charges to its customers, but in return it has had from the public service commission a firm hint that it ought to improve its service to those subscribers.

The company has been authorized to increase rates to achieve a $96,311 boost in revenues, according to schedules yet to be applied to its 91 exchanges, including Seymour, Shiocton, Black Creek and Chilton.

But it has also had a warning from the state regulatory agency that it may one day find its services unwanted and unsaleable, unless quality of performance is improved to compensate for the higher charges to customers.

Concern Over Service

The smaller community exchange rates are already high, the commission noted, as it "expressed concern about the relationship of the applicant's rates to the quality of service furnished."

"Over the years there have been improvements in the quality of service," the commission went on. "Much still remains to be done."

"The commission recognizes that the service situation cannot be corrected overnight. The commission further recognizes that the applicant owns and operates well over a 100 small exchanges which have not been profitable operations. Each succeeding rate increase draws closer to the point where rates

FBI Agent Calls For Faith in Law Agencies

Effective law enforcement is based on public faith in law enforcement agencies, FBI Agent John O'Connell said in an address to the Appleton Optimist club Monday.

Public faith comes from understanding jurisdictions and functions of the agencies, he declared.

The agent stressed cooperation in reporting crimes and criminals to authorities and called for a greater awareness of what acts constitute a crime under federal laws.

He praised the press for aid in establishing and publicizing the FBI's "10 most wanted criminals" list. O'Connell said press publicity has been directly responsible for capture of 30 per cent of the 100 listed criminals captured.

O'Connell reviewed the FBI's agent training program and noted the bureau offers an intensive training program for local law enforcement officers.

Kiwanians Will Hear Water Safety Talk

Edward Douglass, Appleton, will discuss boat and water safety at a meeting of the Appleton Kiwanis club Wednesday, noon at the Conway hotel.

Also on the program will be singers from the MacDowell chorus.

Only the subscribers themselves, in the light of their existing economic circumstances, can determine the point of no return with respect to rate levels.

The commission said it had heard "forcefully" about the relationship of rates and quality of service during the hearings which preceded the rate order allowing additional revenues to permit a rate of return of 6.26 per cent at a rate base throughout the state of $27,364,665.

Corbett said today a full house is expected with but about 10 of the reserved tickets remaining.

Drunken Driving Charge Dropped

A charge of drunken driving against George A. Gottschalk, 45, route 2, Appleton, was dismissed Monday by Municipal Judge Oscar J. Schmiege after a trial.

Gottschalk was arrested last Nov. 11 by state police on Highway 41 between N. Mason street and County Trunk A.

Gottschalk claimed mechanical difficulties in his car caused erratic driving and produced a repair bill to prove it. He refused to take the drunkometer test.

Admits Cashing Worthless Checks

E. J. Robbins, 26, LaCrosse, was held in county jail for a 2-week pre-sentence investigation after he admitted cashing a worthless check for $50 and a forged check for $80.

Robbins told Municipal Judge Oscar J. Schmiege that he had one previous conviction four or five years before. He drove from LaCrosse to Appleton and surrendered to Appleton police after he was notified that a warrant for his arrest had been issued.

Robbins admitted cashing a worthless check April 10 drawn on the Hortonville office of the Appleton State bank and a forged check on a Reedsburg bank signed Lyle Frey and dated April 7. Both checks were drawn on the Continental Training service.

Challenges Democrats on Vetoed Bill

similar bill for the same reasons in 1956, suggested that in the future congress pass one bill covering projects approved by the chief of army engineers and the administration and separate bills for others. The president may not sign or veto only part of a bill.

Many of the projects in the vetoed bill, Eisenhower said, "are sound projects which will make important contributions to our national wealth."

Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas, the Democratic leader, criticized the veto. He said congress could have supplied money quickly to start some of the projects as an anti-recession move.

to the floor and lay across his body protectively.

"All I could think of was that little guy in my arms," she said. "Then I felt the wind lifting us, and I couldn't hold onto him any longer."

Froning and his daughter Gloria, 7, were in the kitchen. She crawled under a table, and that saved her life.

Girl Uninjured

After the storm passed on, Froning picked himself up 100 feet west of where only the foundation of the house remained. He had a head cut.

His wife landed a few feet from the dwelling. Her left arm was gashed.

After a few seconds they found Gary, sobbing from fright and unable to say what had happened. He was 50 yards southwest from the razed home.

It took several minutes for the Fronings to discover Gloria was still under the table. Resting atop it was one wall of the house. She crawled out without a scratch.

Teachers Union In Japan Calls For First Strike

Tokyo—The leftist-led Tokyo Teachers Union has called on its 40,000 members to walk out tomorrow in Japan's first teachers' strike.

The immediate cause is the conservative government's decision to let principals make "efficiency and integrity rating reports" on teachers to the government's education committee. The union claims the government is seeking to change the educational system established during the American occupation to force teachers to propagandize for rearmament.

Public school teacher strikes are illegal in Japan. The metropolitan police board said ring-leaders will be arrested if the strike comes off.

A union spokesman said, "We know that public opinion does not favor our striking action. If things are left as they have been going, however, all our education will eventually be controlled and dictated by the conservatives."

Prime Minister Of Malta Quits

Fails to Get Promise of British Financial Aid

Valletta, Malta—Feeling ran high on this little British island in the Mediterranean today after the resignation of laborite Prime Minister Dom Mintoff.

Mintoff quit last night after failing to get Britain to promise more financial aid to the Maltese to offset unemployment anticipated because of the British plans to close the big royal navy base. About 13,000 Maltese are employed at the base.

The island colony's governor, Maj. Gen. Sir Robert Laycock, planned to ask Dr. Borg Olivier, leader of the nationalist opposition in parliament, to form a government. But this looked hopeless since the labor majority—23 of the house's 40 members—signed a declaration that they would not support a non-labor government.

Mintoff and his government remained in office on a caretaker basis. But the prime minister rejected normal constitutional procedure by refusing to advise the governor on a new government or on whether to call a general election.

Mintoff's aim has been to

Last Rites Wednesday For Famed Playwright

Hollywood—Funeral services will be held in San Francisco tomorrow for Playwright Frank Mandel, 74.

Mandel, who wrote the librettos for such stage hits as “New Moon,” “The Desert Song,” and “No, No, Nanette,” died of a coronary ailment in a Hollywood hospital Sunday.

He leaves his widow, the former Isolda Hian.

a “lifetime of personal experience, peace and war.”

In advance of McElroy's appearance Chairman Vinson (D-Ga) pledged that the committee will consider the proposals “seriously, objectively and in detail.”

Vinson is one of the leading opponents of the general proposal, however.

Even before the hearing got down to the questioning stage, McElroy attempted to counter two of the objections which have been expressed to the plan.

He said the proposal “does not contemplate merger of the services any more than the Continued Air Defense command, the Eastern Atlantic and Mediterranean command, the Atlantic command, the Strategic Air command, the Caribbean command, the European command, the Alaskan command, and the Pacific command, all of which are in existence today, have tended to merge or destroy them.”

Separate Chiefs

Each of those commands is headed by a single chief, from the service with the predominating interest in the area, in charge of all forces regardless of branch.

Then McElroy turned to the expressed concern of some congress members over the increased control over money which the defense department would have under the proposed setup.

“Misgivings have been expressed,” McElroy said, “that the new proposal seeks to put the entire defense appropriation, now some $40 billion, in the hands of the secretary of defense for him to dispose of as he sees fit. No such change is sought or wanted. The objective is simply to provide the secretary of defense with modest flexibility in the handling of defense funds so that unanticipated needs of the unified commands can be met promptly—and scientific breakthroughs can be exploited rapidly.”

N. Lawe Parking Ban Denied by Committee

May Do Something With Block South Of E. Wisconsin

A parking ban for the west side of N. Lawe street between E. College avenue and E. Wisconsin avenue was denied Monday night by the city council's public safety committee.

Aldermen Roy Pointer and Donald Mueller sought the ban in a resolution presented to the council last week. They said that parking on both sides of the street creates a hazard.

Ald. Homer Molmstrom, in whose ward the section is located, appeared at the meeting to protest.

Await Decision

Malmstrom said, Committee Chairman Thomas K. Schneider said today, that there isn't sufficient traffic between E. College and E. Atlantic street to warrant the change and there already is a parking ban over some of the remainder.

Committeemen agreed with Malmstrom, but they also agree that something should be done in the block south of E. Wisconsin, Schneider said.

Committeemen Will Hold Off

any action on the block south of E. Wisconsin until the street and sanitation committee makes some decision on the request of Pointer and Mueller to have the street widened at that point.

The street committee is expected to take up the request at its next meeting, May 5.

Jury to Represent City

Committeemen instructed Schneider to ask the Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific Railway company to cease switching across S. Oneida street during the 5 o'clock traffic rush.

Former chairman Malmstrom asked the company to stop the switching after Ald.

Ervin J. Bogan called for the action a few months ago. Bogan told the council in March the railroad had complied for a time but again was switching cars during the 5 o'clock rush.

City Atty. Don Juty was instructed to represent the city at the state public service commission hearings April 30 at city hall on the Chicago and North Western Railway company's petition for automatic signals at the W. College avenue and W. Second street crossings. The city will be neutral, Schneider said.

Stop-Go Lights

Electrical Inspector Fred Volkman was asked to inspect the W. College avenue-N. Richmond street-Memorial drive intersection's stop-go lights.

Ald. Al. H. Stoegebauer in a resolution to the council last week, asked that something be done with the lights to enable pedestrians to know when cars are coming from where.

No Action was Taken on the Richmond school Parent-Teacher association's request for a juvenile bureau in the police department.

Pick One Today Schneider said the committee feels Chief Walter J. Henderson has the solution in sending one of his officers to Madison for special training in how to handle juvenile cases. The man is to be selected from ### 15 officers today, Schneider said.

The committee also is asking all aldermen to file requests for stop-go lights they may be considering. Volkman needs the information to budget time and material, Schneider said.

The committee, he said, intends to try to work progression of lights on the 1-way and primary streets into Volkman's program.

Street lights were approved

for the center of the block on E. Moorpark avenue between N. Racine street and N. McDonald street, provided Ald. Pointer obtains easements; at E. Melrose avenue and N. Alexander street, and at the end of E. Murray avenue near the dead end.

Policeman Herbert DeBruin

this morning answered a call about a deer in Pierce park near the Jefferson school. When he arrived at the scene, he reported sighting the deer. The following conversation ensued.

"What is it?" from Sgt. Theodore Neuman.

"A deer — eating grass."

"Is it a buck?" asked the sergeant.

"Looks like it to me," answered DeBruin.

"Put it in the car," suggested Neuman.

"That's what I'd like to see — a moose and a deer in the same car," chimed in a third policeman from his listening post.

Patrolman DeBruin has been known to diet occasionally and is what some people would call a large man.

Monday night's showers were enlivened along E. College avenue shortly after 9 o'clock by a Lawrence college student strolling down the street clad in bathing trunks and carrying an umbrella. ### Appeals Board Grants Exception to City's Lot Line Setback Law

Arnold J. Kriehn, 816 S. Kernan avenue, Monday night was granted an exception to the city building code by the board of appeals.

The board instructed Building Inspector Walter Bogan to issue a building permit to Kriehn, permitting him to build a garage within two feet of his lot line. The ordinance forbids such construction within six feet of the lot line.

The board, Bogan said today, felt it should grant the exception to Kriehn since it granted one some time ago to a neighbor. Kriehn would not be able to build a garage on his property without the exception, Bogan said.

How can you expect a fellow to think you're a lady when, based on your performance, he knows better?

People judge us by the things we say and do, and not by what we TELL them we are. A lady doesn't use nasty language. Your best bet is to set higher standards and live up to them,—so that you don't lose out with other "living dolls".

Your Problems

A Wife's No Slave, Says Ann, Should Get Monthly Allowance

BY ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN: I've been married 12 years to a clean-living, hard-working man. But the road has been a rocky one and I need help.

We own a 240-acre farm. I've bunched flax, stacked hay, fed cattle, cleaned barns and served as midwife for piglets and calves. I've dressed fryers, butchered hogs, canned fruit and vegetables by the crate. I have three children to care for and I do all my own housework.

The problem is this: I can't get any money out of my husband. Whenever I ask for a few dollars to buy an appliance or money to pay a dentist bill he says 'I'm a little short right now,' or 'Wait until I die — you'll get everything.'

I work every bit as hard as he does and feel I should be treated as a partner. How can I get him to see things my way? — SINKING FAST

At the rate you're going, YOU'LL die, and HE'LL get everything. Tell your husband you want an allowance every month. If he says he's 'a little short', tell him he's going to be a whole lot shorter if he has to hire three men to do the work you're doing now for free. And don't smile when you say it, Sister.

DEAR ANN: You're right. ALL politicians are not crooks. It's those 90 per cent who give the other 10 per cent a bad name. — GEORGE

Dear George: That's what I like — real confidence in our public servants. And who elects these 'crooks'? If you

New Floor Care Ends Waxing

One of the difficult jobs of housekeeping is to wax linoleum and asphalt tile floors. Now, thanks to Glaxo, it's no longer necessary to wax and scrub; just apply Glaxo about twice a year. It maintains a high lustre, non slip coating that seals out dirt. Glaxo dries in one hour and is water clear. It's cheaper than wax in the long run, besides saving a terrific amount of work, plus truly a beautiful floor.

Nelson Accuses GOP of 20 Years of 'Do Nothing'

State Fiscal System a 'Hodge-Podge,' Legislator Tells County Democrats

Republican administrations in Wisconsin have been guilty of more than 20 years of "do nothing" government, State Sen. Gaylord Nelson, Democratic gubernatorial aspirant, charged in Appleton Monday night.

In an address to Outagamie county Democrats, Nelson declared the state GOP has followed a program of shifting the burden of government costs to the property taxpayer and has created a hodge-podge fiscal system.

He called for establishment of a school construction authority to carry the major share of school building costs. The authority would be financed by broadening the state income tax base.

Couldn't Survive
"No business could survive under the inefficient methods used by Republican administrations," Nelson declared. He said the state needs a bureau of administration to insure efficient and economical government.

Steps should be taken to allow public access to Wisconsin waters, the state senator said. The conservation commission hasn't established public access because its interests lie with powerful resort owners, rather than with the people of the state, Nelson claimed.

A broadly-based scholarship fund is needed to provide financial aid to needy prospective college students, Nelson asserted. He claimed Republican legislatures have failed to show an interest in higher education.

Lack Funds
"More than 50 per cent of the top half of Wisconsin high school graduates each year fail to enter college because they lack funds," he declared.

He said GOP legislators have shown too much interest in practical education and not enough in studies that promote understanding of human relations.

Nelson branded "right to

'You Auto Buy Now' Campaign to Open in New York Friday

New York — Automobile dealers in the Metropolitan area will open a campaign to spur car sales with a Madison Square Garden rally including circus acts next Friday morning.

The purpose of the rally is to stimulate dealers, their salesmen, bankers and others to try new sales techniques and to show them how to make old ones pay off.

Two major dealer associations are staging the 16-day campaign.

The theme is "You Auto Buy Now" — a slogan that has been used in other cities.

work" laws as attempts to destroy unions. Such laws are attempts to punish the whole union movement for the sins of a few leaders, he stated.

No Leadership
He charged the national GOP administration with lack of leadership.

"Not all proposals made under the New and Fair Deals were good, but at least Presidents Roosevelt and Truman did something. The Republicans have done nothing at all in the last six years," Nelson said.

He blamed the GOP for farm problems, crises in foreign affairs and the business recession.

Special Troops to Leave Israel After Parade Thursday

Jerusalem, Israeli Sector — Special Israeli troops and armaments will be removed from Jerusalem immediately after the 10th anniversary military parade Thursday, Israeli sources said today.

The sources reaffirmed that Israel intends to go through with the parade on the country's independence day despite Jordan's contention that it will violate the 1949 armistice agreement.

Israel concedes that the size of the force which will be used in the parade is greater than the armistice agreement allows: to be stationed in Jerusalem's Israeli sector. But the Israelis say no violation is involved because the forces will not be stationed here.

U.N. authorities have been informed that the forces will leave the city immediately after the parade. No military planes will take part, informed sources said.

Foreign guests are streaming into Israel for the 10th anniversary observance. The latest arrivals include Prof. Joseph Kaplan of the University of California, chairman of the U.S. committee for the International Geophysical Year, and Prof. Selman A. Waksman, Nobel prize winner and director of the Microbiology Institute of Rutgers university, New Brunswick, N.J.

Gov. Averell Harriman of New York has sent Prime Minister David Ben-Gurion a message saying: "Freedom-loving people the world over salute the people of Israel and their chosen leaders for their accomplishments."

Democrats Ask Two Men to Seek Office

Outagamie county Democrats Monday night passed a resolution encouraging John Reynolds, Green Bay, and Milo Singler, Shiocton, to run for state attorney general and Eighth district congressman, respectively.

They passed the resolution — introduced by Owen Monfils, Green Bay, Eighth district chairman — despite objections by John S. Denigan, Little Chute, who said that it might be construed as an endorsement of the two men.

Denigan said the move might discourage other Democrats from seeking the offices involved.

Monfils conceded the resolution constituted a "left-handed endorsement," but declared that prospective candidates need all the encouragement they can get.

Members named to a nominating committee to select delegates to the state Democratic convention at La Crosse in June were Fred Reichel, Kaukauna, William Riker, Appleton, Singler and Sylvester Lenz, Kimberly.

In other business the Democrats:

Young Republicans Vote Davis Support

Winnebago County Group Endorses
Ex-Congressman for Senate Post

Oshkosh — Winnebago county Young Republicans endorsed Glenn R. Davis, former congressman and candidate for the Republican senatorial nomination last year, as its preference for the senate nomination when it met Monday night at the Town House here.

The county YGOP unanimously went on record to promote actively the endorsement of Davis as the Republican candidate for the senate seat now held by Sen. William Proxmire, Democrat.

In its resolution the Young Republicans declared it is vitally important that the Republican party offer its best candidate in the forthcoming election.

"Forget Differences"

"In order to achieve victory, it is necessary for all Wisconsin Republicans to forget the differences of the past and unite behind the most qualified man for the office of United States senator." Such a man, their resolution continued, must be well-known throughout the state, a tireless campaigner and a man who has faithfully demonstrated his loyalty to basic Republican principles.

They pointed to Davis as one prospective candidate who met those qualifications and added that he had 10 years of outstanding legislative experience as a member of congress and

He was charged with the theft of a truck Thursday from the Wholesale Lumber company of the town of Menasha. He was apprehended by county police while driving the truck.

The repeater charge results from his conviction Aug. 14, 1956, of unarmed robbery in connection with the robbery of a blind person in Menasha. He was sentenced to one to five years at the state reformatory at Green Bay for that charge.

'Neenah Like Heaven,' Indian Editor States

S. V. Rayan, Foreign Exchange Leader, Spends
Three Days in Twin Cities During U. S. Tour

Neenah — "Coming from India, this looks like Heaven," said S. V. Rayan's comment on the United States and on Neenah.

Rayan, editor of India's leading financial journal, is participating in the foreign leader exchange program of the department of state. He is spending three days in the Twin Cities on his tour of the country.

Perhaps the two most impressive pictures the guest received in Neenah were those of this city's educational and industrial plants.

He toured Neenah High school Monday, visiting several of the classes. The spacious, well kept and well regulated buildings are a stark contrast to the few schools in India, Rayan said. His nation has 84 per cent illiteracy.

Also on Monday's itinerary was a visit to Kimberly-Clark's Lakeview mill. Industry in India, which accounts for only about 20 per cent of the national income, is not as highly mechanized as here, he said, and automation is nonexistent there.

The lack of mechanization and automation are largely on account of labor union opposition, he said. In a country with a population approaching 400 million people, there must be work for as many as possible, he commented.

Still, more than 70 per cent of the Indians earn their living from agriculture. The average Indian has an annual income of 55 American dollars.

This morning he toured the National Manufacturers bank here, and noted that such a bank in India would employ more than 200 people and be spread out into perhaps four branch banks. The local institution employs less than 50 people.

The present business recession has not manifested itself in India, Rayan said, but if it continues it is bound to affect world trade and thus affect his homeland. Some optimists, he noted, hope that the United

Car Care Is Specialty At City Auto Laundry

Neenah — City Auto Laundry, 308 Torrey street, specializes in washing cars expertly and speedily. Proprietor is Mike Dundee.

Services offered by City Auto laundry include car washing, wax jobs, motor steam cleaning, radiator flushing and upholstery cleaning.

Three men are on duty at all times. As a convenience to motorists, the firm's Weaver car wash system takes only about 10 minutes. The process is the same with every car.

The Weaver car wash system wets down the car and sprays it with a mist of car washing detergent. The men then "mitt it down" all over and remove bugs, tar, and other hard-to-remove particles. The car then receives four clear, cool water rinses and is chamoused dry.

With the purchase of 10 gallons of a powerful, name-brand gasoline, the car wash costs only 99 cents, with or without white sidewalls. Separately, each car wash costs only $2, black or white sidewalls. Every car wash includes interior cleaning, too.

The wax jobs clean and protect the finish and chrome of any car. The motor steam cleaning removes all old oil and grime from the engine. The upholstery cleaning includes seats, floor mats and door panels.

Area motorists would be wise to stop in at this spotless business and inspect the facilities. Estimates are cheerfully given on all services offered. To reach City Auto Laundry, simply turn off Main street onto Torrey street and the firm's building is located directly to the right. Phone number is PA 5-2441.

Menasha—Although it hasn't won a championship since the 1955 season, Menasha still holds the edge in the all-time Mid-Eastern conference baseball standings. The 1958 version of the league race will get underway this weekend.

The Bluejays have a percentage of .742 on 46 wins and 16 losses. They tied Kaukauna for league honors in 1955 with a 6-1 record and had 2-4 and 2-5 the last two years to lower their percentage.

Kaukauna has a .581 all-time percentage for the second best average with 36 wins and 26 losses. Its best recent total was the 6-1 in 1955.

Kimberly has an even .500 mark on 22 wins and as many losses for third. Neenah has crept up to fourth with .492. Through 1954, the Rockets had won 11 and lost 27 but since then their fortunes have improved considerably.

In 1955 they had 5-2, they copped seven straight the next year and last spring came through with a 6-1 state. They have 29 wins and 30 losses and a win over Shawano Saturday would up them to the .500 mark.

The league began play just 10 years ago with four teams — Menasha, Kaukauna, New London and Shawano. Clintonville and Neenah joined the next year and Two Rivers and Kimberly entered for the 1951 season.

Neenah has that 1950 tie plus single titles in 1956 and 1957. Clintonville won the championship in 1951 and Kaukauna and Kimberly tied in 1954.

Church League Holds Meeting

Softball Circuit
Organizes for Fourth Season

Menasha — The Menasha Church Softball league, sponsored by the Recreation department, will organize for its fourth season at 7:30 tonight at the Memorial building.

The league played with five teams in its first season and had six the last two years. Last year's roster included St. John, St. Mary, Trinity, Bethel, St. Timothy and Congregational.

St. John won the championship each of the three seasons the league has been in existence. Last year it downed Trinity in two straight games in the postseason playoff series.

The league also sponsors an all-star game midway in the season matching the first round champion against the best from the other five teams.

Loop play is expected to get underway early in May. Players must be members of the church for whom they represent.

Gilbert League Sets Plans for 1958 Campaign

Golfers to Launch Fourth Season on Bridgewood Links

Menasha — Golfers in the Gilbert Paper company league will launch their fourth season on either May 6 or 13, it was announced by league officials and team captains following the loop's annual spring meeting.

All league action will be staged on the Bridgewood course with matches slated to begin at 4:30 each Tuesday afternoon.

The league again will operate on an 8-team basis with two men playing for each team in the weekly matches. Scoring will be the same as last season — 20 points for each individual match with a total of 40 points possible for a team.

Rosters Vary

An individual earns two points for each hole won and one point for a halved hole with two points going to a winner of a match.

Team rosters will vary in manpower, ranging from three players on some teams to as many as five or six on others to offset the loss of players due to shift work.

League play will be over a 17-team week schedule with the windup of the season being the annual jamboree and banquet. No postponed matches will be permitted this season — all matches must be played as scheduled or result in forfeits.

The 1958 season will mark the first race under the guidance of new leaders. John Christofferson is president; Art Reubold, vice president, and Len Heckner, secretary-treasurer. They succeed Joe Nadolney, George Pavletzke and Larry Neff who held their respective posts since organization of the loop.

States slump may stimulate private investment in India, but this is a minority opinion.

Favors Nehru's Policy

Rajan spoke in favor of Indian Prime Minister Nehru's "neutralist" foreign policy, saying that war must be avoided at all cost. For India to align itself with either of the major powers would alienate itself with the other and possibly precipitate war, he said.

"We don't want foreign troops on our soil again. It took us 150 years to be rid of them the last time," he said.

India has been a free nation only since the end of World War II.

He expressed his nation's appreciation for United States economic aid, saying that India is putting it to maximum use.

The Asian visitor has already been in Washington, Pittsburgh, Detroit and Milwaukee. When he leaves Neenah Wednesday morning he will visit Chicago, San Francisco, Los Angeles, the Grand Canyon, the South, and several eastern cities before spending 15 days in New York city.

In his home Bombay he is editor of "Commerce," a magazine comparable with "Barren's Weekly." He is married and has a daughter, 13, and a son, 8. He is a strict Hindu.

Thespians Plan Drama Fantasy As Spring Play

'Princess and the Swineherd' Is NHS May Production

Neenah — A dramatic version of the famous fantasy "The Princess and the Swineherd" will be presented by the Neenah High school Thespians on May 16 and 17.

The production falls into the category of children's theater, a type that is enjoying a boom on an international level. It is primarily for children, but may be presented by children or adults.

Through the urgings of the Children's Theater association, and influenced by a recent national magazine article, the Thespians finally decided to plunge into the children's theater phase of drama.

The plays can be enjoyed equally by children and adults. Amateur actors have less trouble adjusting to the acting problems in plays where the purpose is acknowledged to be unrealistic. The audience has less trouble adjusting to young actors playing elderly persons in these plays.

Name Cast

The cast for "The Princess and the Swineherd" includes Bonnie Wolterding as Clair De Lune, Diane Ganzer as Chow Tung, Jim Jensen as Dominic, Carl Ziem as Etienne, David Loynd as the emperor, Sid McLain as Agramor, Nancy Bredendick as Eboni, Rachel Bernier as Siesta, Jill Harker as a baker woman and Linda Thomas as a vegetable woman.

Director for the production will be Ken Anderson, NHS teacher and Thespian adviser. The assistant director, a student, has not been named. Chief prompter will be Karen Graverson and prompters will be Karen Madsen and Carol Kruse.

Bernard Lamb, 236 1/2 Second street, has asked that a lot next to his house be rezoned to local business so he can put up a portable greenhouse. The lot is now partially zoned local business.

Tony Pawlowski has requested the lot on which his tavern is located at the corner of Third and Manitowoc streets be rezoned from residential to local business.

Chisox Suffer Third 1-Run Defeat at Hands of Tigers

Yankees Deal Red Sox 4th Straight Loss

By The Associated Press
The Chicago White Sox may have the best pitching in the American league with a staff that has seven starters, but what Manager Al Lopez could use at the moment is a starter who can finish.

The staff that led the AL in complete games with 59 last season, behind Billy Pierce (16), Dick Donovan (15) and Jim Wilson (12), and picked up strong-armed Early Wynn over the winter, has not been able to get a complete game in six starts this season. Pierce, Donovan, Wilson, Wynn and young Bill Fischer all have tried.

ERA Is 5.01
What's worse, they've won only two of the six with a whopping 5.01 earned run average that has cost them three of four games decided by one run. Donovan blew a 4-hit shutout in the last two innings for a 2-1 Detroit victory Monday.

The New York Yankees won their fifth straight, defeating Boston 4-1. Kansas City, in second place 1½ games back of the Yanks, collected eight runs on two hits in the eighth and beat Cleveland, 9-4.

White Sox hitters were no help to Donovan. They got just three hits off Frank Lary in his eighth inning, scoring without a hit when he walked two and hit two in the sixth. Vito Valentinetti won in relief.

Detroit solved Donovan for a run in the eighth on three straight singles to tie the game. Charley Maxwell led off the Tiger ninth with a double, and Detroit wrapped up the issue when pinch batter Mickey McDermott singled home the winning run against reliever Ray Moore.

It marked the third defeat the Sox have suffered in four games against Detroit—all by the margin of one run.

The Red Sox lost their fourth straight, although getting 10 hits and six walks. Don Larsen, who hit a 2-run homer in the second off loser William Nixon, won his second. Ted Williams, who singled for his first hit in 10 at-bats this season in the fifth, hit his 45th career home run in the seventh off Bob Grim. Whitey Ford wrapped it up with clutch relief.

Five walks, a single and Frank House's grand slam homer gave the A's their big eighth against rookie Jim "Nudecat" Grant and losing reliever Steve Ridzik.

3-1 League Head to Greet Foxes

Totten Brings Colorful Background, Contagious Enthusiasm to Banquet

Hal Totten, whose energy and know-how have kept the Three-I league on an even keel at a time when several other Class B circuits have foundered, will bring his contagious enthusiasm to the Fox Cities baseball banquet Thursday night in the Appleton Elks club.

Totten, who broadcast big league baseball for a quarter century and has headed up the 3-1 loop since 1951, is among the leading sports personalities who will help welcome the Foxes.

Others include National League President Warren Giles; Pete Suder, Foxes man-word picture for thousands of ages; and former Philadelphia Phillies millions of listeners. Among the high spots in his active career were 19 World Series, four All-star baseball games, the Dempsey-Tunney fight in Chicago, several Kentucky derbies, several Indianapolis "500s," a number of National open golf tournaments and several Stanley cup hockey series.

As Hal himself puts it, he did just about everything that was "broadcastable," even to marbles and soap box derbies. Born in New Jersey, Totten, who will be 57 years old in July, was born in New York City.

Many Fox Cities area fans will remember Totten as the voice of the Cubs and the White Sox for many years. He reports that he has broadcast something over 3,000 baseball games.

Vike Baseball, Track Teams Set to Make Home Debuts

Oshkosh Invades SSAC Field for Diamond Clash Wednesday While Cindermen Meet St. Norbert

Lawrence college's baseball and track teams both make their home debuts Wednesday afternoon.

The Viking nine, first Lawrence baseball representative since World War II, will meet Oshkosh's Titans at 3:30 on the South Side Athletic club field, 1726 S. Lave street.

The Vike trackmen entertain St. Norbert's Green Knights at 3:30 at Whiting field.

Coach Don Boya expects to start left-hander Bert Elliott on the mound against Oshkosh, which is unbeaten in four games this season and has an 8-game, 2-season win streak going. Elliott's throwing hand has recovered from blister trouble.

Wood to Catch
George Purucker and Karl Franke, both right-handers, are the Vikes' other available pitchers. Bill Wood will open behind the plate.

Around the Lawrence infield will be Don Wolf, first base; Mike Gilboy, second base; Harry Hartoonian, shortstop; and Rick Ramsey, third base. Playing the outfield will be Charlie Scruggs, Joe Quick and Don Schildt.

Coach Eric Kitzman's Titans have swept doubleheaders from Lakeland and the University of Wisconsin - Milwaukee in the last 10 days.

Kimberly sophomore Ken Vander Velden is the regular third baseman for Oshkosh, while Freedom's Bob Maulick holds down the shortstop job. Duane Sheets, formerly of Waukegan and now an Oshkosh resident, is the regular left fielder.

Dual Season Debut
Wally Schlafke, Jim Waite and star freshman Don Stoviak are among the possible mound starters for Oshkosh. The Titans resumed baseball two years ago after it had been off the sports program for more than 30 years.

The Vike trackmen, still under the direction of Coach Gene Davis in the illness absence of Art Denney, will be making their dual season debut after two appearances in relays. The Vikes placed in five events in the Cornell relays, but failed to win any events, then won three events at the Monmouth relays.

Sophomore Tad Pinkerton, star of the Vikings' contingent at Monmouth, will make his home track bow against the Green Knights. The fast-traveling Pinkerton established a new school mile record with his 4:23.9 clocking last Saturday. The old mark of 4:26.7 was set by Heckert in 1936.

Sophomore Gil Sutherland, the Vikes' other individual winner at Monmouth, will be making his first home varsity appearance in the weights. Gil Sutherland and John Winsor — another

Foxes Get 3-1 League Approval to Play 4 Games in Menasha

Weber and Pappas Assigned to Umpire May 3 Opener

The Fox Cities baseball club has received the approval of 3-1 League President Hal Totten to play four of its games in Menasha this season.

The dates are May 20, against Rochester; June 9, against Davenport; July 14, against Cedar Rapids; and Aug. 9, against Burlington.

The Foxes' regular home base is Goodland field. In okaying the switch of four games, Totten said, "this move not only is in keeping with the Foxes' true representation of this fine group of cities on the Fox river, but it should prove a fine tonic to baseball and the 3-1 league in that area."

Fred Weber and Matthias Pappas, two of the 3-1 league's new umpires, have been assigned to work the Foxes' first home game—against Cedar Rapids May 3. Weber comes from the Northern league, while Pappas has moved up from the Midwest league.

The Foxes' season opener at Davenport (Sunday) will be worked by Jay Van Rhee, who comes to the circuit from the Georgia-Florida league; and Ralph Bernardino, a 3-1 returnee.

The other Sunday umpiring assignments announced by Totten are: Weber - Pappas for the Rochester - at Cedar Rapids game; and Gerald Carlton and William Hatch for the Green Bay-at-Burlington game.

Cedar Rapids is the only club that will participate in three openers. In addition to its own home opener Sunday against Rochester, Cedar Rapids will move to Rochester April 30 for the Athletics' debut, and then on to the Fox Cities for the Foxes' May 3 inaugural.

Cedar Rapids' Alfredo Reynolds (5-8, 142 pounds) is built along the same lines as the Foxes' Hilario Valdespino. Reynolds is considered the fastest man on his club, and it should be interesting to see him and Valdespino buzz around Goodland field during the season's first series.

Cedar Rapids' Alex Monchak hopes to build his club around four experienced players who were part of the pennant-winning nine at Evansville last year. They are pitcher Mike Dalton (8-6 and a 3.13 ERA last year), Horace Garner (league batting champ at .334), outfielder Joe Trenary (.243) and catcher Sid Goldfader (.239).

Burlington manager Walt Dixon has held over eight of the Bees' 1957 players on the current 19-man roster.

"Chuck" Lindstrom, son of former major league star Fred Lindstrom, will play with Davenport this season. The young catcher was signed by the White Sox off the Northwestern campus last summer and assigned to Colorado Springs.

Another of the youngsters on the Davenport roster this year is pitcher Joe Hoerner who won 16 and lost five for Duluth Superior last year and was voted ed the Northern league's rookie of the year.

Hoerner, a lefty, allowed the Class A Colorado Springs team only two hits in seven innings the other day. Davenport won the camp game, 3-1. In another game, the Class C Duluth-Superior team, managed by Joe Hauser, beat Davenport, 6-5.

Rochester expects its ticket book sales to reach a mark of between 1,500 and 1,800 before the season starts.

Auburn Is Hit With Another 3-Year Ban

NCAA Deals Seattle, Southern Methodist Lesser Penalties

New Orleans — Auburn, shackled with another 3-year probation sentence for football recruiting violations, today faced prospects of a bleak athletic future with teams all dressed up in success and nowhere to go.

The National Collegiate Athletic association slapped the 3-year ban — one of the severest in the group's history — at a meeting Monday and dealt Seattle university and Southern Methodist lesser penalties. Seattle drew probation for two years and Southern Methodist was given a less stringent 1-year term.

Auburn, No. 1 football team in the nation last year and rated a prime contender for national honors again next fall, was about to complete a 3-year probationary period when the hammer fell again. The action Monday covers all Auburn athletic teams and makes them ineligible for NCAA title events as well as mid-season and post-season tournaments until Sept. 1, 1961.

Seattle's basketball teams are ineligible for NCAA events, mid-season and post-season games until Sept. 1, 1960. The probation given SMU does not bar the Mustangs from bowl games and other tournaments, but the school's athletic program and practices will be under close scrutiny until Sept. 1, 1959.

John Castellani, Seattle basketball coach and athletic director, resigned after the NCAA action was announced, but he denied any pressure was applied.

Walter Byers, executive director of the NCAA, said the discipline given Auburn was the third toughest penalty ever administered by the group. Only the 4-year probation given North Carolina State in the Jackie Moreland case and Kentucky in basketball recruiting cases were more severe.

The Auburn case, Byers said, involved a prospective student-athlete being offered "illicit financial aid" for the benefit of himself and his family.

Byers said the Seattle case involved the head coach offering two prospective athletes financial aid.

The probation given SMU, Byers said, arose out of the school obtaining a summer job for a football player whom the NCAA said was not qualified for the position.

Althea Gibson Interested in Singing Career

This May be Her Last Year in Big-Time Tennis

New York —(AP)— This may be the last year of big-time tennis for Althea Gibson. Thenceforth, if you want to see the gangling net queen, don't go to Forest Hills. Just flip your television dial. She now seems more interested in a singing career. "I can't say exactly what my future plans will be," the 30-year-old Harlem girl said after returning from a spring tour of the southern tournaments. "I love to sing. I'll just have to wait and see how things turn out."

Will Defend Crown Althea is booked for a singing appearance on the Ed Sullivan TV show May 25, shortly before she takes off for England to defend her Wimbledon crown. She'll make another appearance on the same show July 13.

The TV debut will coincide with release of a new recording. Althea has a deep, throaty voice and specializes in pop numbers.

Asked what her plans might be if she happened to make a favorable showing on TV, she smiled.

"What do you mean 'if I happen to make a favorable showing'?" she asked indignantly. "This is a big chance for me. I fully intend to make a hit."

But what about Wimbledon and her American title? Has her show business aspirations cut into her tennis career?

"I am going to Wimbledon and I plan to play in the United States championships at Forest Hills," she said. "Furthermore, I will win at Wimbledon again, also I'll win at Forest Hills."

Mrs. Rigney Seeks to End Family Feud Offers 'Chuck' Presidency if He Drops Court Actions

Chicago —(AP)— Mrs. Dorothy Rigney, in an apparent attempt to end the feud involving the Chicago White Sox official family, said Monday her brother, "Chuck" Comiskey, could become president of the team by withdrawing his various court actions.

Mrs. Rigney, secretary-treasurer of the American League club, stipulated that she would seek to maintain control over White Sox affairs as a check on Chuck's actions.

Undisturbed by Bad Start Williams Asks Bosox Fans Not to Give Up

New York —(AP)— Ted Williams today asked Boston followers not to give up on the Red Sox. He thinks the club, in the throes of one of its worst starts in history, is ready to roll.

The great slugger, feeling better about things now that he has his first hit and his first home run, not only predicted another banner year for himself but insisted the Red Sox will still give the New York Yankees a run for the pennant.

"Everybody says the Yankees will win by a 15 to 20 games," he said. "Don't believe it. They're good. They've got a solid club, but they may have trouble with their pitching."

Larsen Leaves "And if they do, watch out, brother. I admit their pitching has looked good up to now but we've got a long way to go and just wait until some of their guys start complaining about sore arms."

Don Larsen had to leave after the fifth inning Monday when his arm tightened up, but the Yankees went on to hand Boston its fourth straight defeat, 4-1.

The Red Sox put 16 runners on base but only Williams, with a seventh-inning home run, scored. They left 13 on base after the game.

With her husband, John Rigney, Mrs. Rigney criticized her brother for taking the family squabble into court.

Comiskey, trying to gain control of the club, said "I have no comment at all" after reading a 4-page statement issued by his sister.

Jackson Wins North, South Meet Medal

U. S. Amateur King Hillman Robbins Fails to Qualify

Pinehurst, N. C. —(AP)— The goings-on in the first day of the North and South Amateur golf tournament would be hard to match despite the colorful 58-year-old history of the classic of the North Carolina sandhills. Little Wayne Jackson, a well-knit 135-pounder who stands only 5-4, and is a private first class in the army at Ft. Eustis, Va., won the medal with a 2-under-par 70.

But the fate of two of the five Walker cuppers in the field of 123 supplied the real surprise. Hillman Robbins of Memphis, Tenn., the National Amateur champion, failed to qualify for one of the 64 match play berths as he took an 84, a dozen shots over par.

Champ Shoots 81 The defending champion, Bill Campbell of Huntington, W. Va., found himself involved in a 19-man playoff for the last nine places available today as a result of shooting an 81.

Jackson bettered par by one shot on each nine in Monday's qualifying play for a 1-stroke lead over Dick Chapman, the Pinehurst veteran who had a 33-36-71.

Jack Penrose of Miami, with a par 72, was the third man in the standings.

Jackson faced a dangerous first round opponent today in Bill Williamson of Charlotte, who five years ago was National Collegiate tournament runner-up.

Chapman, heading the lower half of the draw, drew Ben Smith of Birmingham, Mich., as his first round foe.

The 19-man playoff had to be settled before the first round head-to-head play began.

The slender right-hander from Panama said, "They're not going to keep me, and I know I can pitch up here somewhere."

Must Lop 4 Off There is a strong likelihood that Robinson may be going somewhere else to pitch. The Braves must lop four more players from their roster by May 15, and it looks like the quartet will include four pitchers.

Male Corner No Troubles to Packing if Know-How Put in Practice

BY EDWARD LAWRENCE Why do people give themselves such a hard time when packing? Ever know a man who, when traveling on business or pleasure, didn't wait till the last minute, then stuff his valuable belongings into a battered bag and run?

All the while he laments he just hasn't got time to pack right. What he means is he hates to pack and so postpones it, for the simple reason that he doesn't know how.

Well, here's how: Start with shoes, toilet kit and other things and arrange them along the part of the suitcase that will be at the bottom when you carry it.

Middle Layer In the middle, lump in all the things you don't mind wrinkling, like pajamas and underwear. Use socks and other small items to plug the holes and corners and even out the surface.

Now the important part: place your trousers across the case from side to side. If it's a 2-suit, face the trousers in opposite directions, with the legs over-the-edges.

Now lay in the jackets on hangers. Smooth and fold them in half to fit the case, and fold the trousers over the folded jacket.

Close the center divider over the full half of the case. Hang your ties over the rack provided. Better luggage has an elastic band or two to keep ties from swinging and wrinkling.

Now lay your shirts out in the other half of the suitcase. The modern 2-suiters should hold six laundered shirts, with some room left over for accessories. (Copyright, 1958)

P-A Athletes to be Housed, Fed at University of Chicago

Chicago —(AP)— The 2,000 athletes and officials participating in the 1959 Pan-American games in Chicago will be housed and fed at the University of Chicago.

The decision to establish a "village" for the athletes instead of scattering them about the city as originally planned was made recently, Jack Reilly, director of special events for the city, disclosed today.

"Chicago officials, viewing films of the last Pan American games in Mexico City, were impressed by the fine facilities made available at the University of Mexico," explained Reilly.

More Efficiency "We think the University of Chicago can do as good a job. At least, there will be a lot more efficiency in housing all personnel at the University of Chicago than assigning athletes to some 10 scattered schools and military installations in the area."

Reilly said planning for the games was progressing at a satisfactory pace, although required construction work at three sites will not begin for some time.

At Soldier field, where the track and field events will be held, replacement of an asphalt circular strip will not be made until September.

Construction of a swimming pool and diving pool of Olympic standard at Portage Park and a cycling bowl at Humboldt park will begin next spring.

The team's No. 1 point-winner last year.

Outside Walls of Church Addition Near Completion

Forest Junction — An addition to the west end of Zion Evangelical United Brethren church has been under construction for a little over a month and the outside walls are nearing completion.

Like the original red brick building, the addition is two stories high and has no basement. It will house a new heating unit, washrooms and classrooms on the first floor. Additional classrooms and a kitchen will be located in the upper story.

The present auditorium on the second floor will be converted into a social hall adjoining the new kitchen. A new auditorium, extending northward from the present building, is part of the project and will be erected this summer.

The A. H. Nimmer Construction company of Kaukauna has the general contract. The various contracts awarded last December total approximately $154,000.

Old Five and Dime Store Has Gained Greatly Since End of World War II

BY SAM DAWSON

New York — The old five and ten cent store, that hardy perennial of the retail business, has flourished since the war by trading up and moving out. Some variety chain store executives believe the first trend has stopped out and the second could slow down.

Dawson

Trading up means that the variety stores turned from the sundries and knick knacks that once were the bulk of the five and dime business to more expensive and extensive wares. In this they have been keeping pace with the year by year gain, until recently, in the spending money of their customers. They moved out to the suburbs and then into the shopping centers to follow their old customers.

Some store executives see consumer caution today revealing signs of trading down by shoppers. But all insist the variety stores should suffer less, if at all, from the current slump than some other retail outlets. Today's stores might astound the managers of the old five and tens.

Sells Burros
Examples: A. J. J. Newberry store in Manhattan, Long Island, carries expensive French perfumes. A McCrory store in Brooklyn sells $25 dolls. A Grant store in Minneapolis has sold $90 Mexican burros as pets. Other variety stores offer $70 bikes and stuffed toys up to $30.

Many stores now allow customers to buy on open or revolving charge accounts. Some offer delivery service. Some 1,500 are self-service type stores with customers totting their purchases in a cart to the check out counter.

But Sunday opening was officially opposed last week at the annual meeting here of the 8,000-member Variety Stores association.

Total variety store sales are estimated running at nearly $4 billion a year now, a $500 million gain over 1956, partly due to many new outlets.

Like other retail stores they felt the February slump, blamed on foul weather and falling incomes in some communities. But the variety stores made the best showing of any type of chains.

For March and April as a whole—with Easter business in both months—many variety stores look for a slight gain over a year ago.

Many say inventories are in good shape. Woolworth, for instance, pared its stocks by $5 million last year.

About $346 million of variety stores' annual sales come from toys. Here trading up has been carried out vigorously.

Change Products
But buyers queried by the trade publication, Variety Store Merchandiser, say the practice now is getting a cautious approach. One buyer says: "We now merchandise many higher priced toys. This program will be continued but not expanded in 1958." Another says: "Some of our merchandising ideas must be revised. For instance, we can't insist on any pre-set mark-up."

Hesitancy over further trading up is marked in house-wares, where competition from discount houses has been keenest.

Supermarket and drug store competition, on the other hand, has been a prime factor in variety stores upgrading and expanding their lines. More and more of their revenues of late have come from power lawn mowers, wearing apparel, costume jewelry and do it yourself carpentry kits.

Variety stores have taken to the shopping centers with gusto. James T. Leftwich, chairman and president of Woolworth, says almost all of last year's sales gain was from newly opened stores, most in shopping centers.

Some variety stores believe they'll gain if any general consumer trend to trading down develops. They expect that some of the customers lost a few years back as they moved up a notch or two on the income ladder may be coming back if incomes shrink before starting up again.

The Law and You

Childless Divorcee May Resume Use of Maiden Name

Occasionally you read in the newspaper that a court has allowed a divorced wife to resume use of her maiden name.

At other times this is not done. What makes the difference?

According to Wisconsin statutes the judge may allow the wife in a divorce case to resume her maiden name only if there are no children of the marriage that is breaking up. If there are children, the mother, who usually has custody of the children, must keep her married name. This has the benefit of keeping the entire family unit operating under a single name.

If the wife was widowed before she made a second marriage, she may resume the name of her deceased first husband.

Can Get Alimony
If a wife decides to take back her maiden name is she entitled to alimony? The Wisconsin Supreme court recently ruled that she was.

The court pointed out some judges in divorce cases refuse to allow a woman to resume her maiden name if she asks alimony from her husband. But this is a matter for the judge's discretion, and the judge may allow both alimony and maiden name.

Speaking of names, a married woman often believes that if she uses her own first name and her husband's last name, there is an indication that she is divorced or widowed. What ever may be the social usage for personal stationery or society page items, every wife should use as her official signature her own first name and her married name. This is her legal name for all official purposes such as driver's licenses and tax returns.

Consistency in use of your name is a legal virtue for both men and women. It is particularly important in tracing title to real estate.

(The State Bar of Wisconsin offers this column to inform, not to advise. Facts may change the application of the law.)

Looking at the plaque, left to right, are Edward V. Krueger, company safety director, Lawrence Mauthe, president of Local 494, International Brotherhood of Electrical workers, and Harold Krueger, president of the Wisconsin Michigan Utility Operators union. The company placed second nationally among utilities its size, with a frequency of 3.03 accidents per one million man hours.

Claims Many Lives

Safety Precautions Offered to Prevent Accidental Poisoning

Madison — The best "cure" for accidental poisoning is to prevent its occurrence. Unfortunately, people do not behave that way.

As a consequence, accidental poisoning claims an estimated 500 lives annually and makes an estimated 75,000 ill — usually through carelessness.

Small children and infants are the chief victims, comprising 80 per cent of the sickness and fatality list.

Recognizing that accidental poisoning is highly vulnerable to a few simple safety rules, Dr. W. Theodore Bruns, director of the new poison information center at the University of Wisconsin Hospitals, has suggested some basic rules for accidental poison prevention.

- Out of Reach
1. Keep all chemicals, drugs, and household products in places inaccessible to pre-school children.
  2. Store in the original container wherever possible.
  3. Place all chemicals (this includes bleach, polish, etc.) in tightly closed containers.
  4. Don't use "pop" bottles for kerosene and similar substances.

5. Don't store drugs which are no longer needed in your family.

6. Make sure basements, garages, and the well under the sink are free from accessible poisons or secure against entry by small children.

7. If a poison or suspected poison has been swallowed, get the container and immediately call your doctor, giving the name or trade name of the poison. He will advise you. Do not use "back fence" or "old maid" remedies; they may do more harm than good.

Knowland's Situation Typifies That of GOP

As 'Mr. Republican,' He Must Buck Anti-Eisenhower Trends Over Country

BY JOSEPH ALSOP

Washington — If you had to choose a single individual to typify the Republican party, the best choice now a days would surely be William S. Knowland. By the same token, Knowland's situation in California beautifully typifies the situations of all the Republicans who are running for election this year.

Over the weekend the senator flew across the continent to appear, like a burly Daniel in a populous lions' den, before a Fresno meeting of the California leaders of big labor. His chosen topics were the beauties of the two measures the A. F. L.-C.I.O. chiefs dislike the most, the right-to-work bill and Sen. McClellan's new labor reform bill.

"I expect," he said with a grin, "something less than an enthusiastic reception." This defiantly tenacious adherence to established Republican attitudes is what makes Bill Knowland the new "Mr. Republican."

Typical Situation
But what makes Knowland's situation so typical of the situation of all Republican candidates is something that the hardest work by Knowland cannot alter. To be blunt about it, President Eisenhower is by no means the great Republican asset that he used to be. No known Republican candidate anywhere is making his main pitch this year on the basis that he is a 100 per cent Eisenhower man. A few Republicans, in the farm states of the midwest particularly, are virtually running against their own president, and above all against their president's farm policy.

Schedule Hearing On Fraudulent Receipt of Relief
Chilton — Clifford Norton, 50, route 4, Chilton, was arraigned in justice court Monday afternoon, on a charge of fraudulently receiving relief funds.

Preliminary hearing was set for April 28. Justice of the Peace Wilbur R. Winch set bond at $1,000. Norton was confined to the Calumet county jail in lieu of the bond.

Charges were brought by the town board of Rantoul which has provided relief funds to Norton while he was alleged to have received unemployment compensation.

Under Wisconsin law agencies giving relief aid must be notified by the recipient within 15 days of receiving money from another source.

College Professors to Meet in Colorado

Several hundred university professors will meet Friday and Saturday in Denver for the annual convention of the American Association of University Professors. The organization has a local chapter at Lawrence college but no representatives will attend.

The professors will take action on a program to improve the economic status of the nation's college teachers and will consider censuring administrations of several colleges and universities in which faculty dismissals or cancellations of contracts recently have occurred.

expected from Bill Knowland, whose party loyalty is as solid as his large physical frame. All the same, if President Eisenhower had sat up all night thinking about the best way to hurt Bill Knowland's chances for the California governorship and Goodie Knight's chances for the senatorship, he could not have found a better method than his veto of the pump-priming Rivers and Harbors bill.

The bill Eisenhower vetoed last week included no less than 29 California projects, estimated to cost just under $200,000,000 of federal funds. Furthermore, development and control of water resources are just about the hottest issues in California today by Knowland's own frank admission.

Characteristically, Knowland is no more than a bit rueful about the president's action. Of his visit to the white house to plead against the veto, he says (and one believes him, strangely enough), "I didn't put it on a personal basis — I just explained the viewpoint of congress." And of the veto itself he says (sticking out his chin like a bulldog seeking a good, enduring grip), "It may hurt me for the time being; but the people of my state will remember my own 25 year record on water resources. That's what will count in the end."

Recession Problem
Ask him whether there is truth in the theory that the Republicans cannot carry crucial Los Angeles county with unemployment at seven per cent or above, as it is at present. Then he replies soberly:

"I don't necessarily agree with that. Furthermore I think people will feel next fall that we are going ahead again. But if the economic picture gets very much worse, it will be pretty rough, I have to agree."

Yet nothing discourages Knowland, who is already spending all the time left over by his senate leadership on plans for "my intensive 90-day campaign." After the senate session ends, he expects to make six speeches a day for three continuous months.

Knowland is not only solid; he is also tireless. He is not only naturally sanguine; he is also so firmly convinced that every Republican campaigner is doing the Lord's work. Finally, he likes a fight.

"I think I'll win," he sums up, with stern conviction. (Copyright, 1958)
